Plan Induction Ceremony For 229th Recruits

Parade To Precede Induction Program Thursday Night

All men who have been enlisted in the 229th Field Artillery Battalion during the present recruiting drive will be sworn in Thursday night, August 17 in the Cunningham Armory.

Lt. Col. George F. Mitchell, executive officer of the 28th Division Field Artillery said today that a mass induction ceremony will be held Thursday night, preceded by a parade.

Parade At 7:45
At seven thirty the battalion will form at the Legion Home and it is hoped to get the State Champion band of the American Legion to head the parade.

At 7:45 the parade will move out headed by Major Alfred Barnes, commanding officer of the battalion. The line will move to the court house where the units will load in trucks and be taken to the Cunningham Armory at the edge of Cascade Park.

Lt. Col. Jacob V. Wachman, executive vice president of the Greater New Castle Association will make the induction address with several three minute talks from other citizens.

Public Invited
The induction will be a public meeting to which any one interested is invited to attend. On Saturday the battalion had recruited ten men. One hundred are needed to fill the battalion to war strength before it moves out for Camp Atterbury, Ind., on September 5.

Recruiting is going on at the armory every day. Many young men are attracted by the idea of serving with hometown friends and it is anticipated that by Thursday night the ten will be added to by many more.

No Orders Here As Yet
Although announcement from Harrisburg states that the division will report for duty on September 5, at Camp Atterbury, Ind., official orders have not been received by the 229th. Lt. Col. Mitchell, who is executive officer of the 229th stated this morning.

According to these "advice," medical examinations were scheduled to begin this week for the members of the division.

PA News notes that the sections of the Highland Heights to New Wilmington road, which were the sources of controversy a year ago when they were left uncovered with non-skid material, have been covered and the entire route from New Castle to New Wilmington is now of the same material. The road surfacing was placed on the route in order to reduce the danger of skidding.

Some time ago it was mentioned in this column that the signs at the various entrances to the city marking the city limits were in need of retouching with paint. It is now noted that they are all spic and span, having been repainted. They give a much better impression to the public at the entrance to the city.

There is one certainly, and that is that there will be no reactivating of Camp Reynolds, near Greenville, during the present increase in armed forces activities. The camp is entirely gone, practically all of the buildings that once housed as many as 100,000 men have been removed.

Man Arrested For Sex Slaying Crime In 1948

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Cook county authorities prepared today for speedy prosecution of George Lettrich Jr., the father of three who confessed the sex slaying of 10-year-old Roberta Rinecarson in December, 1948.

State's Attorney John Boyle indicated he would ask a death penalty for the 36-year-old unemployed punch press operator and also indicated he may go before the Cook county grand jury today to seek Lettrich's indictment on murder charges.

Lettrich was arraigned in suburban Brookfield Village court in an unprecedented session at 1 a. m. today on a "John Doe" murder warrant issued shortly after the Rinecarson child was slain.

Magistrate Frank J. Kanelos refused bail and continued the case until 4 p. m. Friday.

A few hours earlier, Lettrich led officers through the west suburbs of Chicago in a reenactment of the crime and then signed a confession he made after extensive lie detector tests yesterday morning.

The confession ended a search for the killer which had been conducted for more than a year and a half in which some 3,000 persons were questioned by authorities.

Mellon Is Named Director Of State Security Program

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—(INS)—The 51-year-old head of the vast Mellon financial empire today is director of Pennsylvania's internal security program.

He is Maj. Gen. Richard King Mellon of Pittsburgh, director of the state selective service system from 1943 to 1945.

Mellon was selected for the post by Gov. James H. Duff and directed to accelerate the commonwealth's military and civil defense preparations.

The government is now asking the court of appeals to revoke bail for the others. If the request is granted nine of them must begin serving five-year jail sentences.

The additional term for Dennis presumably will run from the time his present sentence ends.

Convicted After Long Trial
The eleventh defendant, Robert Thompson, was given a three-year sentence. Thompson won the Distinguished Service Cross in World War II.

Indicted in June 1948, the Communists were convicted after an historic eleven month trial last year before Federal Judge Harold Medina.

William Z. Foster, chairman and head of the party in the U. S., was named in the indictment. But he was not tried along with his comrades because of a heart condition.

Appeals Judge Thomas W. Swan ordered the show-cause hearing in New York next Thursday after the government submitted an affidavit stating that the defendants are "dangerous" to the national security while they remain at liberty.

Besides Dennis and Thompson, the convicted men are: John B. Williamson, Jacob Stachel, Benjamin J. Davis, Jr., Henry Winston, John Gates, Irving Pofash, Gilbert Green, Carl Winter and Gus Hall.

To Have New Report
The American U. N. delegation expects to have the new report on Korea from the unified command in a day or two, leaving it to France's Jean Chauvel to take the lead in the security council this afternoon in blasting away at Russian chairman Jacob Malik.

Report Truman Is Ready To Ask For U.M.T. Law

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(INS)—The White House reiterated today that President Truman will withhold his request for a Universal Military Training law until next year.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—President Truman is reported ready today to ask for a universal military training law as soon as Congress completes action on present emergency legislation.

Commander George N. Craig of the American Legion expressed his personal belief that the White House will ask for passage of a U.M.T. bill calling for conscription of 18 and 19-year-olds at least on a stand-by basis.

Craig asserted in the NRC "meet the press" television show that the "president is now for such legislation and has always been for it."

"The American Legion commander called the 'cold war' with Communism a 'life and death struggle.'"

Delay Senate Vote On Control Bills To Friday

Some Strings May Be Tied To Powers Granted President

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Delay until Friday for a Senate vote on President Truman's economic controls bill may bring some restrictions on the far-reaching measure.

Senate minority leader Wherry (R-Nebr.) said the Senate is "being hysterical" and that he expects a trend toward tying some strings to the powers to be granted the President.

U. S. Successes Reported In Crucial Korean Sectors

Reds Massing Huge Force In Nakdong Sector

All-Out Attempt To Smash No-Retreat Line Is Expected

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN (Far Eastern Editor, U. S. S.)

TOKYO, Aug. 14.—Counter-attacking U. S. Forces annihilated 700 to 800 Red troops that crossed the Nakdong near Waegwan today and hurried enemy bridgehead units back more than a mile toward the river below vital Taegu.

These successes in two crucial sectors northwest and south of the Taegu front-line hub were announced tonight as U. S. Marines on Korea's south coast occupied strategic heights southeast of Chinju after a net 12-mile advance.

They coincided with grinding advances by United Nations forces pressing a counter drive on the east coast aimed at recapture of the port of Pohang.

Report 65,000 Massed
But principal attention was riveted on the 30-mile Nakdong sector between the Waegwan and Changnyong areas where the Reds were estimated to have massed more than 65,000 troops—out of their total of perhaps 135,000 to 140,000.

An all-out enemy attempt to smash the "no retreat" Nakdong line and overwhelm Taegu was expected momentarily.

As of Monday night, the latest Korean battle developments were: North Sector—The U. S. First Cavalry Division's Seventh Regiment and supporting tanks, artillery and planes were credited officially with having "annihilated" 700 to 800 Red troops that crossed to the Nakdong's east bank just below Waegwan. The latter is 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

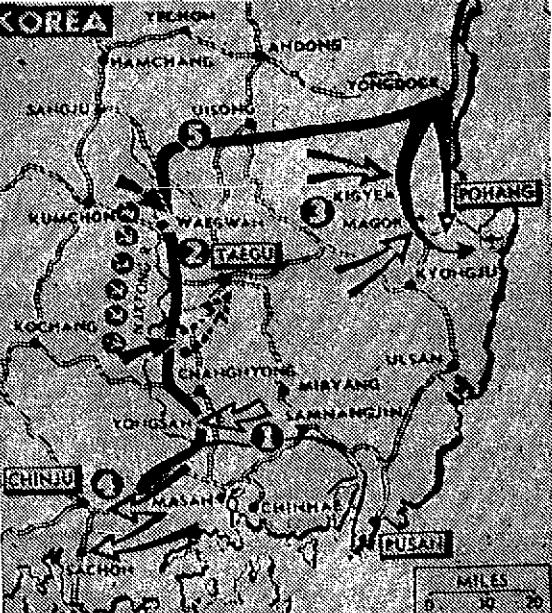

West Sector—U. S. 24th Division infantry, supported by tanks and planes, drove the North Korean Fourth Division back 2,000 yards—more than a mile—in a major counter-punch during the day. The enemy's only established bridgehead across the Nakdong. This action sealed off a large part of the Red bulge below Changnyong, 23 miles south of Taegu.

South Sector—First Marine Division troops dashed forward 15 miles into Sachon, seven miles south of the big Red anchor base of Chinju, then drew back three miles and took possession of their real objective—a series of valuable heights.

North Sector—South Korean Army spearheads, supported by U. S. tanks, guns and planes, achieved "some progress" in counter-blows designed to drive the invaders out of Pohang. U. S. troops clung to a fighting base six miles southeast of Pohang after the U. S. Air Force evacuated the strip.

North Sector—Communist units were reported within 33 miles north of Taegu as Allied planes pounded the enemy pressing against South Korean troops in (Continued on Page Two)

New Type Rockets Used In U.S. Air Attacks In Korea

TOKYO, Aug. 14.—(INS)—"Tiny Tim" rockets were disclosed today to have been used for the first time in actual warfare during "successful" Sunday air attacks on a wide variety of enemy targets in Korea.

U. S. Navy carrier planes of Task Force 77 used the 12-inch "Tiny Tim" with "devastating results" against North Korean rolling stock and bridges.

Rocket Is Misnamed
The "Tiny Tim" is an armor piercing rocket with what a Navy spokesman termed "terrible explosive power." He declared the rocket is misnamed, since "it's neither tiny nor timid." "Tiny Tim" is carried under the wings of carrier-based planes.

Thirteen locomotives were destroyed and 23 more damaged in aerial smashes featuring the new weapon, a communique said.

"Tiny Tim" rockets and napalm fire bombs were used in "working over" five trains.

In the vicinity of Haeju, near the 38th parallel boundary, smoke from two burning fuel oil trains was visible for more than 60 miles. (Continued on Page Two)

Flu Epidemic Hits Eskimos

GOOSE BAY, Labrador, Aug. 14.—(INS)—A frantic radio appeal from a remote, ice-bound community stricken by an influenza epidemic spurred the Royal Canadian Air Force today to the rescue.

Of the 500-odd inhabitants of Ft. Chimo, mostly Eskimos, more than 300 were down the disease, including Nurse Emond, the provincial health officer, and the town's one doctor.

One plane with a physician and medicine was swiftly dispatched from Goose Bay to Ft. Chimo, on the barren Arctic reaches of Ungava Bay, 1,000 miles north of Halifax, and more were being readied.

A radio appeal for help said three persons had already died of the ailment—to which Eskimos are more readily susceptible than city-dwelling white men—and that four are in critical condition.

Hand To Hand Fighting In Korea Today

By FRANK CONNIFF (U. S. War Correspondent)
FIRST CAVALRY SECTOR, Korea, Aug. 14.—Americans and North Koreans battled in fierce hand to hand fighting today, probably for the first time since the battle of Taegu.

Seventh Regiment cavalymen killed at least 700 Reds in annihilating a strong enemy thrust across the Nakdong river.

Rocket-bombing and strafing planes, artillery, mortars and tanks got the heaviest toll of enemy dead but the Seventh Regiment foot soldiers even engaged in some knife fighting as they battled their way back to the river.

Concentrated Slaughter
The battle was perhaps the greatest concentrated slaughter wrought by America's fighting men on the North Korean Reds who apparently (Continued on Page Two)

His companion in an attempt to scale the forbidding mass of granite was found dead late yesterday under circumstances which indicated that young Reynolds also perished.

The body of Stephen Wasserman, 17, son of William Wasserman, wealthy New York broker, was found by a rescue party of veteran mountain climbers.

It was wedged, at about the 11,500-foot level, in a snow-filled crevasse at the northeast corner of the peak's east face.

In scattered chunks of broken granite there were signs that decomposed rock gave way under the feet of the two youths and hurled them to their deaths.

Mountain men said that Reynolds' body might be pinned higher up in the crevasse.

Delay Senate Vote On Control Bills To Friday

Some Strings May Be Tied To Powers Granted President

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Delay until Friday for a Senate vote on President Truman's economic controls bill may bring some restrictions on the far-reaching measure.

Senate minority leader Wherry (R-Nebr.) said the Senate is "being hysterical" and that he expects a trend toward tying some strings to the powers to be granted the President.

Wherry said, however, that the most he hopes for is to attach some amendments to the measure. But he doubts that he and Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) can win on their attempt to require that Congress

Legion Band State Champs

Local Outfit Wins Highest Honors

Crowning a successful season of competitions, in which they won many first place events, the drack young band of Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion, took first place at the state convention of the American at Philadelphia, Saturday afternoon.

The band passed the reviewing stand with colors flying, every man in step, and their lines as straight as a board. They were in competition with some crack bands which have had high ratings down through the years, but the boys lived up to the confidence which the Gaston Post and citizens of New Castle had in sending them to the state contest.

They scored 96 points out of a possible 100.

The band returned home Sunday.

SHOWS RUGGED TERRAIN NEAR NAKTONG RIVER

SOUTH KOREA—This aerial view is a graphic picture of the rugged terrain held by the North Korean forces across the Nakdong River. The American 24th Division, reinforced by other elements pushed the enemy forces back 2,000 yards today in an effort to relieve pressure against the Pohang airfield. The view is looking across the river into enemy territory. The river is visible in the lower left of the picture by Acme staff photographer, Edwin Hoffman.

U. S. Successes Reported In Crucial Korean Sectors

Reds Massing Huge Force In Nakdong Sector

All-Out Attempt To Smash No-Retreat Line Is Expected

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Aug. 14.—Counter-attacking U. S. Forces annihilated 700 to 800 Red troops that crossed the Nakdong near Waegwan today and hurled enemy bridgehead units back more than a mile toward the river below vital Taegu.

These successes in two crucial sectors northwest and south of the Taegu front-line hub were announced tonight as U. S. Marines on Korea's south coast occupied strategic heights southeast of Chinju after a net 12-mile advance.

They coincided with grinding advances by United Nations forces pressing a counter drive on the east coast aimed at recapture of the port of Pohang.

Report 65,000 Massed

But principal attention was riveted on the 30-mile Nakdong sector between the Waegwan and Changnyong areas where the Reds were estimated to have massed more than 65,000 troops—out of their total of perhaps 130,000 to 164,000.

An all-out enemy attempt to smash the "no retreat" Nakdong line and overwhelm Taegu was expected momentarily.

As of Monday night, the latest Korean battle developments were: Northwest Sector.—The U. S. First Cavalry Division's Seventh Regiment and supporting tanks, artillery and planes were credited officially with having "annihilated" 700 to 800 Red troops that crossed to the Nakdong's east bank just below Waegwan. The latter is 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

West Sector.—U. S. 24th Division infantry, supported by tanks and planes, drove the North Korean Fourth Division back 2,000 yards—more than a mile—in a major counter-push designed to knock out the enemy's only established bridgehead across the Nakdong. This action sliced off a large part of the Red bulge below Changnyong, 23 miles south of Taegu.

South Sector.—First Marine Division troops dashed forward 15 miles into Sachon, seven miles south of the big Red anchor base of Chinju, then drew back three miles and took possession of their real objective—a series of valuable heights.

Northeast Sector.—South Korean Army spearheads, supported by U. S. tanks, guns and planes, achieved "some progress" in counter-blows designed to drive the invaders out of Pohang. U. S. troops clung to a fighting base six miles southeast of Pohang after the U. S. Air Force evacuated the strip.

North Sector.—Communist units were reported within 33 miles north of Taegu as Allied planes pounded the enemy pressing against South Korean troops in

Transit Strike In St. Louis Is Ended

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14.—(INS)—The three-day St. Louis transit strike ended early today, and normal service was restored for 600,000 bus and trolley riders.

The strikers went back to work after Gov. Forrest Smith of Missouri declared at the capital in Jefferson City that he would take drastic action through an injunction to force the men back to restore service or lose their jobs or seniority rights.

The end of the strike was announced by Vance Julian, the governor's representative and chairman of the mediation board who accepted the transit union's assurance that service would start immediately.

Ava Gardner Back; Denies Romances

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Movie actress Ava Gardner was back from Spain and England today with denials that she was in love with either Mario Cabre, who wrestles bulls, or Frank Sinatra, who wrestles microphones.

Dripping blue silver mink, Miss Gardner swept off a plane at International Airport yesterday to declare reports that linked her romantically with the Spanish bullfighter were "ridiculous."

Reinforced American 24th Division troops attack Reds' six-mile Changnyong beachhead (1) and drove the enemy half-way back to the Nakdong River. On the west front, Reds massed up to 60,000 men (Communist Symbols) along a 20-mile front for major drive against Taegu (2). Reds crossed river southwest of Taegu, but 1st Cavalry troops threw them back. Another Red thrust, north of Waegwan, was met and held by South Koreans. On the east front (3) Americans held and fought for United States airport south of Pohang, abandoned by U.S.A.F. South Koreans launched counter-attacks from Magok and Kigye areas to cut off main body from Red forces holding Pohang. In the south, U. S. forces continued slugging toward Chinju (4), with U. S. Marines fighting into Sachon. On the northern front (5), North and South Koreans were locked in a large scale battle.

New Type Rockets Used In U.S. Air Attacks In Korea

TOKYO, Aug. 14.—(INS)—"Tiny Tim" rockets were disclosed today to have been used for the first time in actual warfare during "successful" Sunday air attacks on a wide variety of enemy targets in Korea.

U. S. Navy carrier planes of Task Force 77 used the 12-inch "Tiny Tim" with "devastating results" against North Korean rolling stock and bridges.

Rocket Is Mismanned

The "Tiny Tim" is an armor piercing rocket with what a Navy spokesman termed "terrific explosive power." He declared the rocket is mismanned, since "it's neither tiny nor timid." "Tiny Tim" is carried under the wings of carrier based planes.

Thirteen locomotives were destroyed and 23 more damaged in aerial smashes featuring the new weapon, a communiqué said.

"Tiny Tim" rockets and napalm fire bombs were used in "working over" five trains.

In the vicinity of Haeju, near the 38th parallel boundary, smoke from two burning fuel oil trains was visible for more than 60 miles.

Flu Epidemic Hits Eskimos

GOOSE BAY, Labrador, Aug. 14.—(INS)—A frantic radio appeal from a remote, ice-bound community stricken by an influenza epidemic spurred the Royal Canadian Air Force today to the rescue.

Of the 500-odd inhabitants of Ft. Chimo, mostly Eskimos, more than 300 were down the disease, including Nurse Emond, the provincial health officer, and the town's one doctor.

One plane with a physician and medicines was swiftly dispatched from Goose Bay to Ft. Chimo, on the barren Arctic reaches of Ungava Bay, 1,000 miles north of Halifax, and more were being readied.

A radio appeal for help said three persons had already died of the ailment—to which Eskimos are more readily susceptible than city-dwelling white men—and that four are in critical condition.

Hand To Hand Fighting In Korea Today

By FRANK CONNIFF
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

FIRST CAVALRY SECTOR, Korea, Aug. 14.—Americans and North Koreans battled in fierce hand to hand fighting today, probably for the first time since the battle of Taegu.

Seventh Regiment cavalrymen killed at least 700 Reds in annihilating a strong enemy thrust across the Nakdong river.

Rocket-bombing and strafing planes, artillery, mortars and tanks got the heaviest toll of enemy dead but the Seventh Regiment foot soldiers of the First Cavalry Division even engaged in some knife fighting as they battled their way back to the river.

Concentrated Slaughter

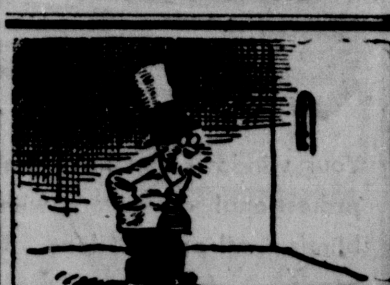

The battle was perhaps the great-concentrated slaughter wrought by America's fighting men on the North Korean Reds who apparently

Along about noon it gets balmy and warm and the sun plays his rays on your nose, but golly at six or seven o'clock it seems like a fellow is froze. You wake in the woods in your cottage or tent and the birds are all singing their lay, but it sounds like a farewell to crisp northern climes, and though it's seventy-seven today, this morning was cool as a morning in March, and in August when morns should be hot, I guess it will wait until Thanksgiving time of Christmas to warm like as not.

U.S. TO SHATTER SOVIET CLAIMS

ern council members, Malik can be counted on again to fire back that the Anglo-American team is slandering Russia when it accuses his government of supplying highly modern tanks, weapons and planes to the North Korean aggressors.

Denounced By Malik

Last week, Malik denounced U. S. Chief Delegate Warren R. Austin for insinuating that the Soviet Union is active instigator and supporter of the North Korean "communist" regime and its armed might.

Malik called it "dirty slander" and barked back that all Russian equipment in the hands of the North Koreans was war material left behind when the Soviet troops ended their Korean occupation last year or was "sold" to them at the time.

Not only is the new MacArthur report expected to give evidence to the council of Russian weapons of latest manufacture in North Korean hands, but the U. N. commission in Korea is seeking also proof that Russia is continuing to give war supplies to the Korean Communists.

tried to open their long anticipated full-scale attack down the Waegwan-facade corridor.

In some sectors of the battle field the Reds were piled high before American machine gunners. Many more were drowned in the Nakdong, striving to retreat.

The Reds crossed the river in the pre-dawn darkness. The American troops, while aware of what was happening, were unable to fire without revealing their positions.

At dawn the North Koreans, having knifed inside the American positions, attacked in a rough and tumble battle.

The American soldiers used rifle butts, bayonets and knives. They lashed out at the invaders with their fists and feet.

"We slaughtered them," said capt. William Cochrane of Joplin, Mo.

"My druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. I can understand now why he called it 'the women's friend.' Pinkham's Compound gives me amazing relief. NEW TYPE ROCKETS USED IN U.S. AIR ATTACK IN KOREA

Three more trains got the same treatment at Sinanju, above the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, with "major damage to all," according to the official bulletin.

Bridge Knocked Out

"Tiny Tim" also got the credit for knocking out a bridge at Chinglu, on one of the main supply lines to the battlefield.

While Navy pilots were hitting communication lines, Far East air force and Australian planes devoted "primary attention" to "direct support" of American and South Korean ground troops fighting Communist forces on the west central and north-east sectors.

Meanwhile B-26 Superforts staged what was termed a clean-up raid on the big chemical plant at Hungnam. Large sections of the vital installation in North Korea were devastated by previous strikes.

Superforts also hit at key bridges, particularly the west railroad bridge at Seoul which has undergone severe damage in many previous strikes.

B-26 Bombers Active

B-26 light bombers joined their bigger brothers in attacking enemy positions, marshalling yard and enemy troops and supply distribution centers.

All told, the air force pilots claimed damage to eight tanks, 48 trucks and other vehicles, two locomotives, two supply dumps, ten warehouses, three bridges and five gun emplacements.

In addition, navy flyers piloting Panthers, Corsairs and Skyraiders, reported they knocked out 34 trucks, four railroad warehouses and two factories. Listed as "badly damaged" were 17 trucks, a railroad warehouse and two power stations.

day evening, arriving shortly before midnight. During their stay in Philadelphia they serenaded Legionnaires in many of the convention hotels, and had an opportunity to appear on television Friday evening, but could not be assembled in time for the program, and so missed this chance of being seen throughout the country.

The recognition they received at Philadelphia speaks well of the ability of the individual members, as well as the expert direction they have received from Joseph Martin, of Bessemer, who has been directing them during the past year.

Many of the band members will become scattered this fall, some going to college, and one member into the armed forces. However, they will have the nucleus for another fine band for next year.

DELAY SENATE VOTE ON CONTROL BILLS TO FRIDAY

"pull the trigger" to put wage and price controls into effect. Too many Republicans already have declared against them, he said.

Administration forces say they are not worried by the delay, which is due to absenteeism. They are satisfied that nothing but minor amendments will be voted, and that "trigger-pulling" will be left in the hands of the President.

Democrats Confident

Although Republican leaders called a special conference in an attempt to patch-up a partly split over the controls bill, the Democrats were confident they had more than enough votes to pass the House-passed measure in its present form.

As it now stands, the bill gives President Truman the power to impose price, wage and rationing controls when and to whatever degree he sees fit. It also gives him other powers to allocate and requisition materials, encourage defense production and control credit.

Republican policy leader Taft Ohio, has opposed the bill, asserting that Congress should keep the controls power for itself. He has won little active support, however, and two other party leaders—Wherry and Sen. Millikin, Colo.—predicted he will lose his fight.

Wherry and Millikin pointed out that they were not supporting the administration bill, but they might support Taft, but they saw no prospect of his winning sufficient backing to overcome the administration plan.

Leaders of a "liberal" Republican wing supporting full control powers for the President are Sens. Lyles, N. Y., and Morse, Ore.

Denounced By Malik

Last week, Malik denounced U. S. Chief Delegate Warren R. Austin for insinuating that the Soviet Union is active instigator and supporter of the North Korean "zombie" regime and its armed might.

Malik called it "dirty slander" and barked back that all Russian equipment in the hands of the North Koreans was war material left behind when the Soviet troops ended their Korean occupation last year or was "sold" to them at the time.

Not only is the new MacArthur report expected to give evidence to the council of Russian weapons of latest manufacture in North Korean hands, but the U. N. commission in Korea is seeking also proof that Russia is continuing to give war supplies to the Korean Communists.

NEW TYPE ROCKETS USED IN U.S. AIR ATTACK IN KOREA

Three more trains got the same treatment at Sinanju, above the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, with "major damage to all," according to the official bulletin.

Bridge Knocked Out

"Tiny Tim" also got the credit for knocking out a bridge at Chungju, on one of the main supply lines to the battlefield.

While Navy pilots were hitting communication lines, Far East air force and Australian planes devoted "primary attention" to "direct support" of American and South Korean ground troops fighting Communist forces on the west central and northeast sectors.

Meanwhile B-29 Superforts staged what was termed a cleanup raid on the big chemical plant at Hungnam. Large sections of the vital installation in North Korea were devastated by previous strikes.

Superforts also hit at key bridges, particularly the west railroad bridge at Seoul which has undergone severe damage in many previous strikes.

B-26 Bombers Active

B-26 light bombers joined their bigger brothers in attacking convoys, marshalling yard and enemy troops and supply distribution centers.

All told, the air force pilots claimed damage to eight tanks, 46 trucks and other vehicles, two locomotives, two supply dumps, ten warehouses, three bridges and five gun emplacements.

In addition, navy flyers piloting Panthers, Corsairs and Skyraiders, reported they knocked out 34 trucks, four railroad warehouses and two factories. Listed as "badly damaged" were 17 trucks, a railroad warehouse and two power stations.

tried to open their long anticipated full-scale attack down the Waegwan-Taegu corridor.

In some sectors of the battle field the Reds were pitted high before American machine gunners. Many more were drowned in the Nakdong, striving to retreat.

The Reds crossed the river in the pre-dawn darkness. The American troops, while aware of what was happening, were unable to fire without revealing their positions.

At dawn the North Koreans, having knifed inside the American positions, attacked in a rough and tumble battle.

The American soldiers used rifle butts, bayonets and knives. They lashed out at the invaders with their fists and feet.

"We slaughtered them," said capt. William Cochrane of Joplin, Mo.

DELAY SENATE VOTE ON CONTROL BILLS TO FRIDAY

"pull the trigger" to put wage and price controls into effect. Too many Republicans already have declared against them, he said.

Administration forces say they are not worried by the delay, which is due to absenteeism. They are satisfied that nothing but minor amendments will be voted, and that "trigger-pulling" will be left in the hands of the President.

Democrats Confident

Although Republican leaders called a special conference in an attempt to patch up a party split over the controls bill, the Democrats were confident they had more than enough votes to pass the House-passed measure in its present form.

As it now stands, the bill gives President Truman the power to impose price, wage and rationing controls when and to whatever degree he sees fit. It also gives him other powers to allocate and requisition materials, encourage defense production and control credit.

Republican policy leader Taft, Ohio, has opposed the bill, asserting that Congress should keep the controls power for itself. He has won little active support, however, and two other party leaders—Wherry and Sen. Millikin, Colo.—predicted he will lose his fight.

Wherry and Millikin pointed out that they were not supporting the administration bill, and said they might support Taft, but they saw no prospect of his winning sufficient backing to overcome the administration plan.

Leaders of a "liberal" Republican wing supporting full control powers for the President are Sens. Ives, N. Y., and Morse, Ore.

day evening, arriving shortly before midnight. During their stay in Philadelphia they serenaded Legionnaires in many of the convention hotels, and had an opportunity to appear on television Friday evening, but could not be assembled in time for the program, and so missed this chance of being seen throughout the country.

The recognition they received at Philadelphia speaks well of the ability of the individual members, as well as the expert direction they have received from Joseph Martin of Bessemer, who has been directing them during the past year.

Many of the band members will become scattered this fall, some going to college, and one member into the armed forces. However, they will have the nucleus for another fine band for next year.

"I GET WONDERFUL RELIEF NOW FROM HOT FLUSHES And Urge Every Woman 38 to 52 Years Old to Read This!"

Lydia E. Pinkham's VEGETABLE COMPOUND

"I had heard so many stories about the functional middle-age period peculiar to women—I hoped I'd escape such symptoms. But I didn't. I found myself terribly embarrassed by hot flushes—I suffered such restless nights, and I could sense myself getting irritable and cranky—due to this cause."

"My druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. I can understand now why he called it the 'woman's friend.' Pinkham's Compound gives me amazing relief. I find if I take it regularly—don't miss a day—it helps build up resistance against such middle-age distress."

P. S. Pinkham's Compound is very tasty in a little fruit juice. Or you may prefer Lydia Pinkham's TABLETS with added iron. Handy to carry in your purse.

BRIDAL SHOWER FOR SHIRLEY BROOKS

Miss Shirley Brooks, bride-elect of this month, was guest of honor at a charming pre-nuptial shower held at her home, South Crawford avenue, with her cousin, Mrs. Charles Smith, as the hostess.

Many lovely and useful gifts were received by the prospective bride, to be used in her new home.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her aunt, Mrs. Howard Rote. A colorful pink and white umbrella was suspended from the chandelier with pink streamers adorned with miniature umbrellas. When the streamers were pulled, an array of small articles to be used in the kitchen were revealed. Small umbrellas were also used as favors, marked with "Shirley and Frank, August 17".

The bride-to-be was also the guest of honor at a shower held recently in Ellwood City at the home of Mrs. Charles Day, sister of the groom.

Miss Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Brooks, 312 South Crawford avenue, will become the bride of Frank Houk, son of Mrs. Harry Houk, Ellwood City. The "open church" wedding will be solemnized in the Epworth Methodist church on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Bridal attendants chosen are: Mrs. Charles Smith, matron of honor; Harold Weingartner, best man; Myron Brooks, brother of the bride; James Houk, brother of the groom, ushers.

Johnston Reunion
The descendants of John and Mary Jennings Johnston will gather at the New Wilmington Community park on Saturday, September 2 for a noon meal.

The present officers include: president, Mack Blevins; vice-president, George Johnston, Jr.; secretary, Mrs. William Knight; treasurer, Melvin Johnston.

L. A. B. Club To Meet
Mrs. Kit Vaughn, East street, will entertain members of the L. A. B. club on Thursday evening.

MARY E. GLASGOW NAMES ATTENDANTS

Miss Eleanor Glasgow of Massillon, Ohio, will attend her sister, Miss Mary Eileen Glasgow, as maid of honor as she becomes the bride of Robert Gilmore on Saturday, August 19.

Bridesmaid for the ceremony will be Mrs. Evelyn Slagle of Massillon, Ohio, sister of the bride.

James Falk of Mahoningtown will serve the groom as best man. Ushers include George Byers of Enon Valley and Edwin Glasgow of Darlington, brother of the bride.

The prospective bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Glasgow of Bessemer, and Mr. Gilmore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gilmore of Mt. Jackson.

Vows will be exchanged at 2:30 o'clock in St. Anthony's church, Bessemer, with "open church" to be observed. A reception for friends and relatives will be held at the bride's home immediately following the ceremony.

SHENANGO CLASS REUNION ENJOYED

The first reunion of the 1947 graduating class of Shenango high school was greatly enjoyed by the alumni associates recently at Gaston park.

The group made plans for a hayride and wiener roast on Saturday, September 23. At a meeting following the picnic, a new committee was chosen, composed of Mary Lou Eakin, chairman; Delores Rhodes, Mrs. James Stock and Mrs. Marion Tomczyk. Miss Rhodes was appointed treasurer for the outing for 1951, which will be held at Gaston park on the third Sunday in June.

Mullentown Reunion
Members of the Mullentown school and their friends will hold their twenty-first annual reunion on Wednesday, Old-Timers Day, at Cascade park. A picnic dinner will be enjoyed in the grove at 6 o'clock.

MARY BUTZ WEDS JOSEPH L. JORDAN

Trinity Episcopal church was the scene of a lovely summer wedding, Saturday afternoon, August 12. At 3 o'clock p.m., in the presence of a large gathering of guests, Miss Mary Gilliland Butz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Frederick Butz, 217 East Lincoln avenue, became the bride of Joseph LeRoy Jordan, son of Mrs. Eva M. Betts, R. D. 7, New Castle.

Rev. Fr. Ralph E. Hovencamp officiated at the double ring ceremony. The altar was embellished with palms and graced with two large vases of white gladioli, flanked by lighted candelabras. Clusters of white gladioli and pom poms on the end of the pews decorated the bridal aisle.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white organza. The gown was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves which were pointed at the wrists and a fitted bodice which buttoned to the waist with tiny pearl buttons. Bands of ruching outlined the sweetheart neck and starting at the waist, two rows of this same ruching went down the front and encircled the full skirt, meeting at the train which was court length. She wore a fingertip length veil of nylon tulle which fell from a band of folded organza, adorned with tiny pearls, and carried a bouquet of white stephanotis, lily of the valley, baby breath and ivy.

Mrs. George F. Steck, Jr., of Birmingham, Mich., sister of the bride was matron of honor. She was attired in a gown of white dotted net. The ballerina length gown was strapless and a stole of the same white dotted net was worn with it. She wore a band of pale green taffeta as a headress, pale green shoes and carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Anne Glenn and Natalie Rowland, of this city; Miss Doris Anderson, of Maywood, N. J.; and Mrs. Robert Easton, Pittsburgh. They were attired identically to the matron of honor and carried bouquets of yellow daisies, marquerites and fiji mums.

Preceding the bride down the aisle was little Miss Joy Sherer, cousin of the groom, who was the tiny flower girl. She wore a full length gown of white nylon over green taffeta. A band of mixed summer flowers formed her headress and she carried a basket of the same flowers.

John Kinnaird, New York, N. Y., former room-mate of the groom, acted as best man. The ushers were George F. Steck, Jr., Birmingham, Mich.; Jack Butz, brother of the bride; Richard McKee, Jack Winter, Robert Tilton, and Fred Broad.

At the organ, Mrs. James Matthews, played a half-hour recital of appropriate nuptial music preceding the ceremony and softly during it.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for approximately 250 guests was held at the New Castle Country Club. Music was provided throughout the afternoon by Frank Taylor at the piano. The bride's table was beautifully appointed in green and white, centered with a five tier wedding cake flanked by lighted candles. Lovely floral arrangements were in evidence throughout the room.

Mr. and Mrs. Jordan departed Saturday evening for a trip by automobile to the Poconos in eastern Pennsylvania. Upon their return they will reside in an apartment at 224 Wallace avenue.

Mrs. Jordan is a graduate of New Castle senior high school and Grove City College where she was a member of Sigma Delta Beta. She was formerly employed at the Universal Rundle Co.

Mr. Jordan is a graduate of New Castle senior high school and Dartmouth College, where he was a member of Sigma Nu. He is employed as a reporter at The News Co.

SHAFFER-LUKACS EXCHANGE OF VOWS

A ceremony of lovely simplicity united the lives of Miss Mary Winifred Shaffer and John Robert Lukacs this morning at 11:30 o'clock.

Miss Shaffer is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Mason Shaffer of 210 Euclid avenue. Mr. Lukacs is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Lukacs of Mercer, Pa. The young couple exchanged wedding vows in the Wallace Memorial chapel at Westminster college, with Dr. Robert F. Galbreath officiating at the double ring service.

The petite brunette bride was attired in a ballerina length gown of ice blue satin. Matching jacket and fitted helmet were pretty accents. She was attended by her sisters, Mrs. Gust Sanfilippo and Mrs. Kirkwood Cunningham. Gust Sanfilippo and Kirkwood Cunningham served the groom.

FLORA MCCONNELL SHOWER HONOREE

A miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Flora McConnell was held at her home, 517 West North street, with her sisters, the Misses Edna and Sylvia McConnell, as the hostesses.

The bride-elect's classmates from East Brook high school were among the guests present. Canasta and reminiscing were the main diversions of the evening.

Many lovely gifts were received by the honored guest, after which lunch was served by the hostesses.

Miss McConnell, a daughter of Grant McConnell, will be married to Steven J. Gollas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Gollas of Warren, O., at an "open church" wedding in St. Mary's church, on August 26, at 12 o'clock noon.

HOME SAME HOME

At a conference on home-building at the eastern university recently, attention was frequently called to the fact that today more thought is given to the design of the interior than the exterior of houses. A drive through new home developments in any city leads to the conclusion that it's done with mirrors—this monotony of exterior design. No wonder some people swear they find it necessary to count houses before they are sure they are going into their own home.

Of course, this is not peculiar to the present time. Row houses in many American cities have similar exteriors, house after house, until the monotony conjures up visions of a mirage.

It is contended home developments today must be standardized to keep their cost down, but even so some effort could have been made to achieve a little originality. The placing of the houses on the lots is so fixed and unvarying that a beholder standing on one end of a street and looking down it is put in mind of troops—all uniform to the color of roofs and the shape of chimneys.

And it is not difficult to disagree with John Hancock Calender, New York architect and authority on small home construction, that the contemporary housing development does achieve privacy for the modern family.

With suburban homes built so close to one another, and with everyone's home just about the same as everyone else's home in one vast development, just what sort of individuality or privacy can follow?

Architects and builders have imposed upon small home buyers the same burden the row house builders brought about a half century ago—monotony in exteriors and auper-standardization inside.

NEEDED SURVEY

With nobody knowing just what a big business concern can do and still remain within the confines of the anti-trust law, there is obvious need for the independent study of monopolies just announced by the Harvard Graduate School of Public Administration.

This survey, which will require five years to complete and will engage the services of nine economists from as many universities, is financed by the Merrill Foundation for the Advancement of Financial Knowledge. As such it is entirely divorced from the government.

Some explorations in this particular field have already been made under the auspices of the foundation. These further inquiries promise to be much more expansive and to cover such matters as the whys and wherefores of anti-trust decrees, the effectiveness of present-day competition, and the means for helping markets to function properly.

The final volume of the seven-volume series will contain analyses and recommendations. Perhaps then there will be presented to Congress a proposal for an anti-monopoly law so clear in its phrasing and so definite in its provisions that no business firm of any size will find it necessary to wonder whether it is operating legally.

As it is now—as has been recently brought into bold relief—many large businesses can never be sure when they will run afoul of the Department of Justice.

SMOKE ON THE HORIZON

That haze on the horizon may not be smoke from the wars, or an atmospheric manifestation. Probably it is man-made.

The cigar industry is in the throes of what may be the day, week and month to end all days, weeks and months. It has dedicated August and September to a "Cigar Enjoyment Parade," during which period the male of the species at least is urged to dissipate in cheroots, havanas and perfectos to the full.

Financed jointly by manufacturers and distributors, the campaign is being built around the slogan, "Enjoy a Cigar."

Joseph Kolodny, managing director of the National Association of Tobacco Distributors and "grand marshal" of the "parade," says the drive "can mark the rebirth of the cigar industry."

That, presumably, will depend to some extent upon the types smoked by participants in this worthy cause. It could conceivably have the opposite effect.

What became of the "Ike for President" boom?

Moscow claims the U. S. has been dropping potato bugs on Eastern Germany. And us, with potatoes to give away?

Some 10,000 specimens of aquatic life may be viewed at the Shedd Aquarium in Chicago.

Slickers in Florida offer $1,000 bills for $900. Well, the inflationists in Washington are doing the same thing.

The purchase price of Alaska ($7,200,000) which the United States paid Russia in 1867, amounted to two cents an acre.

It's no trouble to steal atomic secrets in Washington, says a congressman. Much easier, in fact, than getting a hotel room.

First use of soap as we know it today was recorded in 77 A. D. by the Gauls, but bathtubs were in use by the Egyptians 2,000 years before.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

A determined attempt to link the power and prestige of the security council to Europe with continental defense steps has been launched by Winston Churchill.

The fiery Conservative statesman, firmly convinced that Europe is unconscious of its peril at the hands of communism or is paralyzed by defeatism, vigorously challenged those who believe that such action is inadmissible.

Churchill addressed the consultative assembly of the council at Strasbourg. He had it go on record with a "message of hope" to the European peoples, pledging itself to form a united army and avail itself in one manner or other of German manpower.

He also took occasion to rap European nations for not giving all-out aid to the United Nations effort in Korea and called upon the United States to send more troops to the continent.

It was a typically vigorous Churchillian speech but there is no question that it has caused some misgivings.

The French government lost no time earlier in the week in disowning speeches made at Strasbourg by former Premier Paul Reynaud and former Minister Georges Bidault on the subject of national defense.

A spokesman pointed out that a clause in the council's statute specifically emphasizes that matters relating to national defense do not fall within the organization's scope.

This was written in purposely at the time the council was established to eliminate any possibility of suspicion anywhere and to emphasize the function of the body as an organ of peaceful economic and cultural cooperation.

Speakers at the initial sessions of the council admitted that the whole venture might prove to be too idealistic for practical purposes.

They conceded that the many different languages in Europe, ancient traditions and seemingly insoluble rivalries might make the organization unworkable.

But at the same time they insisted that the effort must be made simply on the ground that cooperation was the only alternative to chaos.

Therefore the agenda was sweeping and general in its nature—in a word, exploratory.

The council delegates, convinced of the need for a united command for the Atlantic defense pact armies, navies and air forces under direction of a single leader, preferably one from the United States.

It is true that some of the member states at Strasbourg are not represented in the North Atlantic defense grouping. But these are nations that could contribute little to armed might in any case.

The council may compromise and perhaps draft a measure expressing a will for peace and the need for strong measures to preserve it.

But there is a chance that it might legislate itself out of existence if it dabbles too greatly in a military field that lies beyond its actual scope.

Folks Of Fame

Sir Hubert Wilkins was born in South Australia, Oct. 31, 1888. He was second in command of the Stefansson party's Canadian Arctic expedition of 1913-17. He was navigator of the Australia Flying Corps, naturalist of the Shackleton Antarctic expedition of 1921-22. He was leader in a number of Arctic and Antarctic expeditions sponsored in the United States. He flew from Point Barrow to Spitzbergen over the Arctic sea during 1927-28. With another man he was first to fly a plane in the Antarctic, discovering more than 1,500 miles of coastline and several islands. He was commander of the Nautilus submarine expedition to the Arctic in 1931, and in command of four Ellsworth Antarctic expeditions. He has been honored with many medals from geographical societies, decorated for military service and created Knight Bachelor. He is author of Undiscovered Australia, Flying the Arctic, Under the North Pole, etc. He is now consultant in the Military Planning division of the United States Army, and lives near Montrose, Pa.

This American composer, Edward A. MacDowell, was born in New York City, Dec. 18, 1861. He studied the piano at an early age, and in 1876 went to Paris and studied in the Conservatoire. For a time he lived in Germany. In 1888 he returned home and lived in Boston until called to the chair of music in Columbia university, New York. His compositions include the Suite, Opus 42, a woodland fantasy with haunted delves and forest spirits; an Indian Suite, From an Old Garden, To a Wild Rose, to a Waterlily, etc. He died Jan. 24, 1908, in New York City.

For what is your life? It is even a vapour, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away. For that ye ought to say, If by the Lord will, we shall live, and do this, or that. But now ye rejoice in your boastings: all such rejoicing is evil. Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin. James 4: 14-17.

For example . . . this morning on the way in from Plaingrove Township . . . we spotted on the road . . . three flocks of pheasants along with about seven in each flock. And they were coming right along too . . . the babies were almost as big as the old hen . . . no ring necks.

And also on this same trip we counted sixteen cottontails . . . not only will they be plentiful this fall if that number means anything . . . but the damage a big number of them will do to the truck farmer is difficult to estimate.

And as we make this trip in the morning that weaves around through the county because the state decided last spring to improve all roads leading to the east from the city . . . we wonder what so many people are doing out driving so early in the morning. . . . There must be a lot of people who work east of New Castle . . . and of course there must be a lot of people who live east who work right here in town . . . But whatever the cause there is traffic at six-thirty and seven.

And being interested in traffic . . . it is interesting to see just who is driving the cars . . . get sort of acquainted with some cars and their drivers . . . passing them all the time in about the same place . . . but we all slow down when the lovers take to the road. Yes, there's a couple who travel to New Castle from some place in the county who haven't a heater in their car . . . so these cold mornings they sit arm in arm . . . to keep warm, as they make their way to the metropolitan area.

But that's life . . . and the right to travel freely over our county side . . . why in the dickens anyone in their right mind would want to change these United States . . . they must be NUTS.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

IF YOUR CHILDREN SHOW OFF

Many parents write of the young child who shows off before company, occasionally of a pair of tots under four or five who do so. But children don't show off for the parents who write of them.

Children first. Sometimes the child who has been treated with great consideration and always as a worthy person in the usual family circle will feel neglected when there's company. Falling by ordinary means to win attention and to be drawn into the circle he may resort to foul measures because he knows his naughtiness will surely win, for both reasons.

Or this child may have lacked in self-control and consideration of others at usual times and may, therefore, be the more disposed to lack in these directions when he is visiting in a home with his parents or when guests are present.

Regardless of the basic cause of this youngster's naughtiness before company, he may soon discover that his bad behavior greatly embarrasses his parents who are very sensitive to what the guests might be thinking of them. This discovery by the child gives him a great sense of power and spurs him on to more naughtiness. His sense of power increases when his distraught parents resort to punishment that the youngster does not respond to as they hoped he would. Indeed, they have waited so long before attempting decisive action as to be emotionally unfit to "correct" the child.

Needs Punishment. Wise parents, feeling sure the child needs punishment when he is company, will calmly take him to a distant room to administer it or merely isolate him in an adjoining room. He must know he can't take advantage of the situation.

Some parents will show off in relation to the child from two to six when there is company or when visiting with him, by making unreasonable prohibitions or requirements of him. Obviously, these parents are trying to impress their adult friends with their power over the child, or to suggest that they have very high standards of control. Occasionally the youngster will meekly submit and conform to the demands by the bossy parents. More often he ignores the parents who threatens and bullies him in the absurd fashion, "I'll never bring you out here again." "You'll have to stay home the next time we go visiting." "Just wait till we get home."

You may have heard and seen a mother or father thus bully a tot many times while visiting at your home. Nor is this bullying parent generally of low education. More often than not she or he is highly educated.

The assumption of the bullying parents seems to be that the adult auditors and onlookers will believe the child well managed at home but not punished when he is in company. When you and I observe such showing off by a parent we suffer because of the harm being done to the relationship between the child and parent and the damage to each one as a person.

Reduce, I pray, the meanness in me. May I cease to nag, and when I am out of sorts help me, O Lord, to hold my tongue" is a sentence from the prayer I once wrote for myself as parent a copy of which may be had in a stamped envelope sent me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N. Y.

HOLD 'ER, NEWT—!

They Like Ferries

(By HENRY McLEMORE)

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 14.—What must be the world's gayest ferry service operates between Copenhagen and Malmö, Sweden, the third largest city.

The boats, big enough to have first, second and third-class accommodations, take an hour and a half to make the run across the sound, and the Swedes and the Danes try to pack as much fun into this brief passage as do passengers crossing the Atlantic on the "Queen Mary."

Sometimes the Danish people go to Malmö and back with out disembarking, and the Swedish citizens go to Copenhagen and back without setting foot on Danish soil.

Love Boats. Now, the people of both these nations are well known for their love of boats and the water, and this may be the principal reason for the great popularity of the ferries. There is, however, another circumstance which may cause these sea-loving folk to love the sea even better.

You see, all the alcoholic drinks which anyone wants can be bought aboard the ferries (the stuff is tax free) for about half the price for which the same beverages can be bought in either country. Strangely enough, the whole interior of the ferries and most of the deck space is occupied by tables and chairs, with handy, hovering waiters everywhere.

As you may know, the Swedish liquor laws are very stringent. Men may have per day little more than what would constitute two good shots at home, and the women about half that much, and it always must be accompanied by food. Tipsiness is a jail offense in Sweden and the police, stationed wherever the grape is sold, will haul a man off to the clink if he

The most gazed-at girl in Copenhagen is not a movie actress, not a theatrical star, not a bathing beauty, or not a member of the royal family. She's a plainly dressed girl, and is such an ardent cyclist that she rides a bicycle 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

She rides her bike atop one of the city's tallest buildings in the main square. If the weather is going to be clear this glided statue can be seen astride her bike wearing a short-sleeved blouse and skirt. But if the weather is going to be rainy she appears on her bike wearing a macintosh and holding aloft an umbrella.

The weather here in summer is very changeable and you find yourself glancing up at the cycling miss before making your plans for the next two or three hours.

Denmark has about the lowest illiteracy rate of any country on earth, but a hangover from medieval days guarantees the few folk who can't read that they'll never have much trouble identifying the shops of merchants. A colorful touch to the city is added by the great bunch of golden grapes which are displayed outside a vintner's two massive gilded cow heads which flank either side of a butcher shop. The big silver bowl suspended in front of every hairdresser, the twisted roll which hangs over bakery shops, and the two-foot-high top hat which marks the hatter.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan
(By International News Service)

Government spending is getting so expensive the RFC has taken the "come and get it" sign off the loan window.

The president has just nominated three men with tight pockets to the governing board and today you've got to offer something more than a receipted milk bill as security for a million dollar loan.

These fellows may even demand to see a bank book with deposits of at least 10 dollars.

So apparently the day is past when you could borrow 37 million dollars to experiment with a metal house with no cellar, no fireplace and no production worth mentioning.

Today you couldn't even borrow four million dollars to dream up a thousand dollar automobile in the three thousand dollar price class.

But you've got to say one thing for the old RFC . . . In an age when we were worrying as individuals about saving our pennies they didn't worry any about spending our dollars.

Anyway we're still slaving for a rainy day.

OFFER PENSION PLAN. NEW YORK.—The General Electric Co. has offered $125-a-month pension minimum to employees with 25 years service. The pension includes Social Security.

The company said it also had offered the International Electrical, Radio and Machine Worker Union (CIO) a clause permitting wage negotiations to be reopened after six months. The company has made the same offer to other unions with which it is negotiating, it said.

Great Game Of Politics

Fall Prospects

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.

It seems agreed by the politicians in both parties that so far as the November elections are concerned Korea has drained public interest in all domestic issues. The feeling is that the Korean war, in particular, and foreign policy, in general, will influence the voters capable of being influenced.

For many reasons this is unfortunate, but it is true. Two views as to the political effect exist. On the Democratic side there are admitted liabilities as well as assets. Administration strategists place high among the former the fact that Mr. Truman's plans for another whistle-stop swing around the country have had to be scrapped. In a crisis such as this, that kind of presidential demagoguery, however successful in the past, would not be tolerated. A second liability is that the popular appeal of the expensive and expansive Truman Fair Deal "to-hell-with-economy" program has been measurably lost by its enforced postponement.

On the other side, it is pointed out that in a time of any foreign threat to the national security there is always a disposition to support the President. This was evidenced by the quick and favorable response to Mr. Truman's firm action against the Russian-inspired invasion by the North Koreans. It is further asserted that it was the nearness of war in 1940 and the actual war in 1944 that proved of immense aid to the late Mr. Roosevelt—if they did not actually elect him. At such times there is great power in the "Don't change horses" appeal. It is the Administration purpose to make the most of this situation, at the same time holding hard to the old Roosevelt combination of union labor, farmer and Negro support.

As for the Republicans, they see in the present state of affairs nothing but political profit. They believe their prospects for gaining control of Congress are greatly enhanced. While conceding the tendency to uphold the White House incumbent in a foreign war, they are convinced this will be offset by the inadequacy of Mr. Truman personally and the weakness of the men by whom he is surrounded. There is considerable evidence to sustain this contention, and also to bolster the three-point indictment which the Republicans are preparing to present.

This is as follows: First, that the Truman foreign policies directly contributed to the creation of the Korean crisis; that they have been feeble, futile—and worse; second, that Mr. Truman failed to keep the defenses of the country in a reasonable state of preparedness for ex-fortress, that that mess that now has arisen and which should have been foreseen, that having, through lack of foresight, permitted us to be forced into a disadvantageous and difficult war Mr. Truman's course has been inexcusably flavored by politics.

In particular, they will charge that he shrank from the indisputable sound Baruch plan for curbing inflation because it involved putting a ceiling on wages. To that the union bosses with whom he is allied are opposed. And it will be pointed out that during the debate on this subject he had Mr. Jack Kroll, head of the Political Action Committee of the CIO, for a White House conference at a time when Democratic members of Congress could not reach him at all. But, there is more to the Republican case as developed since Korea. For example, they will charge that while Congress, including the Republicans, acquiesced in giving him the additional billions for which he asked and was willing to go further than he wanted on taxes and power to regulate prices, he merely made a preposterously phony gesture toward economy in nondefense expenditures, giving no support to his reduction of the pork in the river and harbors bill or to Senator Byrd's plea for White House leadership in eliminating nonessentials in the omnibus appropriation bill. In brief, it will be alleged that Mr. Truman took no real step to prevent a dangerous inflation or to effect economies obviously necessary to restore health to our internal fiscal position—the first requisite of a strong defense. Instead, he resisted both.

Nor, despite the failure of the bungling McCarthy to substantiate his specific charges, the Republicans will point out that a good many top secret State Department documents were probably stolen by employees and turned over to Communist agents; that from the start of the Hiss case, the Administration has refused to acknowledge the facts and has taken the utterly untenable position that all charges were "red herrings." Considering all this, it is easy to understand why it is becoming more and more difficult for the Administration to make a convincing answer. The only person in Washington who holds that Democratic prospects are better than ever is Democratic Chairman Boyle. But that is his business.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

How good were the "good old times?" That question arose when an article entitled "Westport—1900" appeared in our local paper.

Its purpose was to boost the "Yankee Doodle Fair," an annual affair held by our Women's club, the proceeds going to various charities.

This year they went back a half century to the dark ages of 1900 which, to the youngsters, belonged somewhere in theocene or paleolithic era.

The article mentioned a dentist's announcement of 1900 which read: "We used Vitalized Air—the safest and best known anesthetic. Teeth extracted for 25 cents. With Vitalized Air 50 cents. Best sets of teeth WARRANTED, $8 to $10."

An article by a woman columnist of that era advised her readers that "nothing can surpass housework for developing the chest."

The newspaper of that day also reported a rumor that a man intended to open a saloon on Main street—the first one of many that were to come later. The community was somewhat shocked at this daring inroad of civilization and fear was expressed by the good ladies of the town that this was the end of decency and decorum.

This article provoked a discussion of the "good old times" when steaks were 20 cents a pound, a cup of coffee could be had for a nickel in any restaurant, and a whole dinner with wine for 75 cents.

One woman related how her painter had told her only a few days ago (at $3.50 an hour) that his father used to buy him a fine pair of shoes for a little more than a dollar and an elegant suit for $7.00. His father, by the way, never earned more than $20 a week and brought up a whole family on that.

The painter sighed, the lady said, and expressed the wish that we were back in those "good old times," when what a man earned belonged to him and not to the government.

It just happens that this same painter also does work for us. I (Continued on Next Page)

The killers held up Clark's place in downtown Pittsburgh. John E. Nesbitt was shot fatally when he attempted to resist the robbery.

But I do know that he rides around in an expensive new automobile. His father used to walk. I also know that he owns a fine home, that his children have a far better education than he had, that he works eight hours or less a day, five days a week, when his father used to work 10 and 12 hours a day, as many days as the boss dictated.

I can go on for pages enumerating all the things he and his children have today that his father never had in the "good, old times". I could refer you to books and articles of 50 and 100 years ago bewailing the then "modern" defects and extolling what were then the "good, old times".

Times are what we make them. The bad, new times of today will be the good, old times of A. D. 2000 or 3000.

People will laugh at our primitive 1950 television, at our lumpy little planes and trains, but will, nostalgically, point to the cheap prices and leisurely life of 1950.

So, bad as they may be, let us enjoy the "good, old times" in which we live.

They are the only times you and I will ever be able to enjoy.

I can go on for pages enumerating all the things he and his children have today that his father never had in the "good, old times".

I could refer you to books and articles of 50 and 100 years ago bewailing the then "modern" defects and extolling what were then the "good, old times".

Times are what we make them. The bad, new times of today will be the good, old times of A. D. 2000 or 3000.

People will laugh at our primitive 1950 television, at our funny little planes and trains, but will nostalgically point to the cheap prices and leisurely life of 1950.

So, bad as they may be, let us enjoy the "good, old times" in which we live.

They are the only times you and I will ever be able to enjoy.

New Castle Speaks

(A Series of Discussions To Be Run Weekly, Based Upon the Ketchum Survey in New Castle)

NEW CASTLE'S MORAL CONSCIOUSNESS

(Fourth of a series)
New Castle is a moral city. Racism and vice are held to a minimum. New Castle's crime rate is only a fourth of that for other cities in this part of the nation.

These facts were brought out in the recent public relations study conducted by the Greater New Castle Association.

There is no doubt that the churches of New Castle deserve a major share of the credit for making this a moral city, the GNCA study pointed out. More than 80 per cent of the citizens of New Castle belong to churches. This is much higher than the national percentage.

We of New Castle respect freedom of every person to worship God in his own way. We have 79 churches. Protestant churches of many denominations, Roman Catholic, Russian and Ukrainian Orthodox, Jewish, and numerous small churches of various creeds serve the religious needs of our city.

Churches mold the moral consciousness of a city. The steady influence that churches exert on their individual members is reflected in the character of a community. New Castle is a better city because of the influence of our churches.

We of New Castle are proud that we are a God-fearing people. There are no weak-kneed apologies for religion in this city. We know that man is but clay and that we need a Guiding Power to direct our actions.

The moral consciousness of our city is one of the many qualities that make New Castle "A Good Place to Call Home."

(The fifth of this series, "New Castle Speaks," will appear in next Monday's New Castle News. It will discuss the loyalty of New Castle citizens to their city.)

Geneva Professor Goes To Rochester

A professor at Geneva for three years, Mr. Doull will leave the college this summer to take the Rochester position in the fall.

4-H Youths To State College

Lawrence County Is Sending Big Group

Lawrence county will be well represented at the annual 4-H club week at Penn State college, which convenes this evening. Fifteen representative 4-H clubbers left New Castle this morning for the college town and will arrive in time for the opening this evening, when they will be addressed by Dr. Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the school of agriculture.

There will be 1,000 4-H youths from the state in attendance. Judging contests and demonstrations will be conducted Tuesday, and Wednesday's program will be highlighted by an address by Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, new president of State college, at the morning assembly program. The program will conclude Wednesday evening with the presentation of awards. The local group will return home Thursday.

In attendance from the county are the following: Nancy Lee Weigard, New Bedford; Ruth Morse, Wilmington; Arlene Noggle, Slippery Rock; Marie Patterson, Hickory; Phyllis Lutz, Neshannock; Joann Chrobak, Shenango; Betty Jane Thompson, Washington; Nancy Marshall, Perry; Donna Mundo, Wertenburg; John Leslie, Shenango; Ord Wolf, Little Beaver; William Roberts, North Beaver; Robert Smith, North Beaver; Robert Smith and Robert Walker, Neshannock, and Robert Reher, Washington.

Also in attendance chaperoning the group are John Holbert, assistant county agent, and Miss Patricia Kelley, home economics extension worker.

Public health and economic costs of rabies in the United States amount to $12 million a year.

News Ad Locates

Stray Police Dog

Miss Louise McConnell, executive secretary of the local Red Cross reported to the Lawrence County Humane Society that she had seen a stray German Police dog in the vicinity of Jefferson street late Saturday morning.

The Humane society in turn, ran a classified ad in The News in order to return the dog to its owner. Emil Bogden of 9 East Leasure avenue promptly claimed the stray pouch with the expression of his gratitude for its return.

Craft Display By Pollock Grounds

Children always like to "make things", and the participants of the Pollock playgrounds have kept busy this summer with various craft projects.

The results of their time and efforts may be viewed in the window of Reynolds and Summers' store, East Washington street. Typical Indian moccasins have been fashioned from leather, with leather belts also a popular choice of the boys and girls.

Lovely Dresden-like figurines have been painted by the children. Featured in this group are tiny human figures and animals. Colorful wall plaques have been painted and also constructed from paper plates. Little children especially enjoyed making yarn pictures.

Of special interest was a baby jacket and bonnet that had been made by tying dish cloths in such a way so as to resemble a baby set. Gaily colored aprons were hand-sewn by the older girls. Dainty umbrellas had been fashioned from hankies. Felt centerpieces added sparkle to the collection.

Following the decision of the judges, three prizes will be awarded for the outstanding entries. Mrs. Mary Sands and Miss Rose Marie Sand are instructors at the Pollock playground.

Traffic Light Plea Rejected

State Turns Down Arlington Ave. Request

Acting Mayor Albert Hoyland and Directors Richard I. Davis and Joseph F. Medure were in a vexed mood during Council meeting Monday because the State Highway department traffic engineers had rejected the city's appeal to place an overhead traffic light at East Washington street, Rose and Arlington avenues. They did grant sanction for a similar light at Liberty street and Mahoning avenue.

Sanction is granted, it was explained, only after a check of vehicular and pedestrian traffic. The state engineers said the volume of traffic was insufficient to warrant a light.

They said during an hour's check on an unspecified date, 989 vehicles passed the spot, 981 going either east or west in Washington street, and 88 emerging from either Rose or Arlington avenues. They said only nine pedestrians crossed the intersection.

At 22 minutes yesterday in Arlington avenue before I could enter Washington street," said Councilman Medure.

Safety Director Richard I. Davis also maintained that "you cannot drive out of either Rose avenue or Arlington avenue."

Acting Mayor Albert A. Hoyland agreed it was a hot traffic intersection.

Solicitor Robert White said that "the state goes by a certain rule that is wrong." Mr. Medure pointed out that all route 422 traffic is detoured via East Washington street.

At certain periods during school terms children from Rose Avenue school must traverse the busy intersection.

Council indicated they will not abandon the attempt to procure a traffic light for that point.

Report Farouk Visits France To See Dancer

DEAUVILLE, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Egypt's King Farouk was reported today to be making a special trip to the French channel resort of Deauville to join his latest flame who is supposedly staying at the nearby swank hotel Du Golf.

Local gossip identified the newest mysterious and beautiful woman in the monarch's life as Egyptian dancer Samia Dahan. The lovely brunette, who made her debut in Europe last week at a charity ball in Monte Carlo, is scheduled to dance before the king at a gala Franco-Egyptian ball in his honor on August 20.

The successor to the Pharaohs, who last year allegedly stole the bride-to-be of a commoner subject, has reserved an entire wing of 23 rooms at the hotel Du Golf for himself and his retinue.

He is expected to arrive on August 16 or 17.

CALL FOR BIDS HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—(INS)—State Department of Property and Supplies called for bids August 23 for construction of concrete cradels for the flag ship Niagara on display at Erie.

The bid date was extended from August 18.

DRIVER IS HELD

Alfonso Colucci, Hamilton street, was arrested at 8:20 p.m. August 12 by Policemen W. Birt and T. Williams in East Long avenue. After an examination by a physician, he was charged by Police Captain W. G. McClinton with driving a motor car while intoxicated. The charge was made before Al German J. C. Brice.

4-H Youths To State College

Lawrence County Is Sending Big Group

Lawrence county will be well represented at the annual 4-H club week at Penn State college, which convenes this evening. Fifteen representative 4-H clubbers left New Castle this morning for the college town and will arrive in time for the opening this evening, when they will be addressed by Dr. Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the school of agriculture.

There will be 1,100 4-H youths from the state in attendance. Judging contests and demonstrations will be conducted Tuesday, and Wednesday's program will be highlighted by an address by Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, new president of State college, at the morning assembly program. The program will conclude Wednesday evening with the presentation of awards. The local group will return home Thursday.

In attendance from the county are the following: Nancy Lee Wengard, New Bedford; Ruth Morse, Wilmington; Arlene Noggle, Slippery Rock; Marie Patterson, Hickory; Phyllis Lutz, Neshannock; Joann Chrobak, Shenango; Betty Jane Thompson, Washington; Nancy Marshall, Perry; Donna Mundo, Wurttemberg; John Leslie, Shenango; Ord Wolf, Little Beaver; William Roberts, North Beaver; Robert Smith, North Beaver; Robert Smith and Robert Walker, Neshannock; and Robert Reher, Washington.

Also in attendance chaperoning the group are John Holbert, assistant county agent, and Miss Patricia Kelley, home economics extension worker.

Public health and economic costs of rabies in the United States amount to $12 million a year.

News Ad Locates Stray Police Dog

Miss Louise McConnell, executive secretary of the local Red Cross reported to the Lawrence County Humane Society that she had seen a stray German Police dog in the vicinity of Jefferson street late Saturday morning. The Humane society in turn, ran a classified ad in The News in order to return the dog to its owner. Emil Bogdon of 9 East Leasure avenue promptly claimed the stray pooch with the expression of his gratitude for its return.

Craft Display By Pollock Grounds

Children always like to "make things", and the participants of the Pollock playgrounds have kept busy this summer with various craft projects.

The results of their time and efforts may be viewed in the window of Reynolds and Summers' store, East Washington street. Typical Indian moccasins have been fashioned from leather, with leather belts also a popular choice of the boys and girls.

Lovely Dresden-like figurines have been painted by the children. Featured in this group are tiny human figures and animals. Colorful wall plaques have been painted and also constructed from paper plates. Little children especially enjoyed making yarn pictures.

Of special interest was a baby jacket and bonnet that had been made by tying dish cloths in such a way so as to resemble a baby set. Gaily colored aprons were hand-sewn by the older girls. Dainty umbrellas had been fashioned from hankies. Foil centerpieces added sparkle to the collection.

Following the decision of the judges, three prizes will be awarded for the outstanding entries. Mrs. Mary Sands and Miss Rose Marie Sand are instructors at the Pollock playground.

Traffic Light Plea Rejected

State Turns Down Arlington Ave. Request

Acting Mayor Albert Hoyland and Directors Richard I. Davis and Joseph F. Medure were in a vexed mood during Council meeting Monday because the State Highway department traffic engineers had rejected the city's appeal to place an overhead traffic light at East Washington street, Rose and Arlington avenues. They did grant sanction for a similar light at Liberty street and Mahoning avenue.

Sanction is granted, it was explained only after a check of vehicular and pedestrian traffic. The state engineers said the volume of traffic was insufficient to warrant a light.

They said during an hour's check on an unspecified date, 989 vehicles passed the spot, 961 going either east or west in Washington street, and 88 emerging from either Rose or Arlington avenues. They said only nine pedestrians crossed the intersection.

"I waited 22 minutes yesterday in Arlington avenue before I could enter Washington street," said Councilman Medure.

Safety Director Richard I. Davis also maintained that "you cannot drive out of either Rose avenue or Arlington avenue."

Acting Mayor Albert A. Hoyland agreed it was a hot traffic intersection.

Solicitor Robert White said that "the state goes by a certain rule that is wrong."

Mr. Medure pointed out that all route 422 traffic is detoured via East Washington street.

At certain periods during school terms children from Rose Avenue school must traverse the busy intersection.

Council indicated they will not abandon the attempt to procure a traffic light for that point.

Report Farouk Visits France To See Dancer

DEAUVILLE, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Egypt's King Farouk was reported today to be making a special trip to the French channel resort of Deauville to join his latest flame who is supposedly staying at the nearby swank hotel Du Golf.

Local gossip identified the newest, mysterious and beautiful woman in the monarch's life as Egyptian dancer Sania Danaz. The lovely brunette, who made her debut in Europe last week at a charity ball in Monte Carlo, is scheduled to dance before the king at a gala Franco-Egyptian ball in his honor on August 20.

The successor to the Pharaohs, who last year allegedly stole the bride-to-be of a commoner subject, has reserved an entire wing of 25 rooms at the hotel Du Golf for himself and his retinue.

He is expected to arrive on August 16 or 17.

CALL FOR BIDS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—(INS)—State Department of Property and Supplies called for bids August 23 for construction of concrete cradels for the flag ship Niagara on display at Erie.

The bid date was extended from August 16.

DRIVER IS HELD

Alfonso Colucci, Hamilton street, was arrested at 8:20 p.m. August 12 by Policemen W. Birt and T. Williams in East Long avenue. After an examination by a physician, he was charged by Police Captain W. G. McMullen with driving a motor car while intoxicated. The charge was made before Alderman J. C. Brice.

LATE BLIGHT FOUND IN 11 COUNTIES

Off to an early start in some sections of Pennsylvania, and favored by weather conditions, late blight was reported spreading rapidly by mid-July. Unless checked, it may attain epidemic proportions. The disease has been observed in tomato fields in at least ten counties: Crawford, Lebanon, Adams, Carbon, Berks, Lancaster, Bucks, Chester, Lehigh and Montgomery. Infected green fruits are beginning to rot. Two counties—Berk and Cambria—have reported attacks on potatoes. Copper sprays or dusts are recommended to keep the disease in control, or to prevent attacks in new areas.

For either control or prevention it is recommended to spray at the following three fungicides:

1. Fixed copper—pounds of metallic or actual copper to 100 gallons of water.
2. Six pounds of copper sulphate (blue stone) and 3 pounds of fresh spray lime to 100 gallons of water.
3. One pound of ziram and 2 pounds of 50 per cent fixed copper per 100 gallons of water.

Where dusting is preferred the recommended treatment is a seven per cent fixed copper dust applied at seven-day intervals. Wet weather and cool nights favor the spread of late blight. Rot, dry weather helps to check it.

URGENT PRECAUTIONS ON WATER HAZARDS

The "old swimmer's hole" season is now at its height. Nearly 50 per cent of drowning victims are rural people and a majority of all infant drownings occur on the farm.

Tragedies from water sports are for the most part preventable. Investigations reveal that the principal causes of drowning are insufficient skill and poor judgment.

Nearly 90 per cent of farm residents who drown are non-swimmers and the majority of infant drownings occur in stock tanks, cisterns, tubs and small ponds. The following precautions are recommended to reduce the needless loss of life from water sports: Make a thorough investigation regarding the safety of swimming facilities.

A boat nearby or a raft anchored in the pond or even a pole or a coil of old rope may be useful in emergencies.

Don't swim alone—never allow anyone to go into the water when tired, over-heated or immediately after eating.

Don't overload your boat. There may be seats for more people than the boat should carry.

Know and heed weather signs and avoid staying out in storms. Always step into the center of the boat—never jump; never stand up in a moving boat; do not permit horseplay.

Old tubs, boilers or other containers should not be left around the farmstead. It takes as little as two inches of water to drown an infant.

Protect stock watering tanks and ornamental fish ponds. If possible, fence them off or cover them when children are nearby. Precautions should be taken, which may mean a life is saved.

KEEP YOUR HAIR AT ITS BEST

With the present trend of coiffures, the quality of your hair is all-important. Choose any length or style that suits you, but keep your hair soft and glossy. If you require a permanent, have a soft one. A too-light wave makes hair dry, frizzy and harsh to the touch—just the opposite from the silky hair you want. If your hair is naturally straight, it should look straight. The permanent is to give it body so you can set it easily.

Experiment with shampoos until you find the one that does most for you. Some shampoos will make your hair soft and shinier. For hard water, a soapless shampoo prevents soap film. Almost any kind of hair will be shaggy unless it is properly set. If you set your own, learn to do an expert job.

When your hair needs cutting, go only to an expert. A poor cut puts your hair in the rough. Another suggestion for soft and shiny hair is to brush it regularly.

Labor Asks Council To Extend Controls

Labor officials and union members have petitioned city council to take favorable action and extend the rent control beyond its expiration date, December 1950.

In their letter to Mayor John F. Haven, the officials stated that the position is being submitted in the interest of all citizens of New Castle.

Labor groups represented by the letter included the CIO Industrial Union Council; Lawrence County Central Labor Union, A. F. of L.; International Association of Machinists; and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Representatives of these labor groups are: Daniel W. Skelly, and Samuel G. Neff, representatives of the United Steelworkers of America; CIO: Alfred Magara, president of the Lawrence County Central Labor Union, A. F. of L.; George Barberis, president of Lawrence County Industrial Union Council CIO; Arsen Armand, president of International Association of Machinists; and Joseph Roth, president of the United Automobile Workers, CIO.

WEDDING PLANS

"I am planning a small, early October wedding, attended by only relatives of both families and a few friends. Will you kindly answer the following questions: (1) I am a brunette desirous of wearing a light or medium-blue gaudy dress. Is this shade suitable at this time of the year? Some of my friends say it is a Spring shade rather than a Fall shade. (2) May I wear a purple orchid with this shade? (3) Do not care for white orchids. (4) What do you think of a white blouse and black accessories—hat, shoes, gloves and bag? (5) Must I pay the soloist and the organist or will gifts suffice? (6) We shall have a small reception at five o'clock for both families only at the home of my grandparents. Will punch and cake be sufficient? (7) Must we have ushers?"

Answer: (1) Blue is correct for an informal bride at any season of the year. (2) A purple orchid corsage is most attractive with blue. (3) Your accessories as outlined are perfectly correct but I suggest a hat exactly matching the color of your suit. . . . black shoes and black or white gloves. (4) If the singer and the organist are professionals, hired for the purpose, pay them for their services. If they are friends who will extend their services because of your friendship, gifts will suffice. (5) If possible, you should, at that hour, serve something more substantial, such as a buffet supper. If this is not possible, you may of course serve punch and cake. (6) Ushers are optional.

Question: When a child is invited to a party, should the mother, who must take the child, go in with her and remain for the party?

Answer: She should take the child to the door, leave her and call for her when it is time for the party to end. She should not go in and stay, unless previously invited to do so by the small hostess' mother.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly mail personal replies to questions from readers enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CORT

John Mason Brown is probably the most popular lecturer in America today. New York's Town Hall gave him official recognition as such when it tendered him a gala luncheon on the occasion of his fiftieth—yes, fiftieth—lecture at that institution. Not only the usual throng of adoring females, but a liberal sprinkling of fellow critics, authors and producers elbowed their way into the jammed hall, and when they were called upon to say a few words their good-natured gibes reflected obvious affection—and sheer envy.

Alfred de Liagre wondered how the lad referred to lovingly in his youth as "Kentucky Mushmouth" had been transformed suddenly into the most successful lecturer of the day. "The probable explanation," he concluded, "is that John makes the women of America think of all the things they haven't done with all the gentlemen they haven't met."

Bob Sherwood told how his attempted lecture four began and ended in St. Louis. A local critic observed, "Mr. Sherwood looks like an undertaker—and is just about as funny. Sherwood agreed heartily and sent his manager a two-word telegram: "Tour cancelled." Louis Kronenberger, booked to replace Brown one season when the latter decided to visit England and France, never got started at all. He listened despairingly to one of John's more inspired performances, decided that angry ladies probably would lynch him if he tried to understudy, and called on John's boat.

WEDDING PLANS

"I am planning a small, early October wedding, attended by only relatives of both families and a few friends. Will you kindly answer the following questions: (1) I am a brunette desirous of wearing a light or medium-blue gabled suit. Is this shade suitable at this time of the year? Some of my friends say it is a Spring shade rather than a Fall shade. (2) May I wear a purple orchid with this shade? I do not care for white orchids. (3) What do you think of a white blouse and black accessories—hat, shoes, gloves and bag? (4) Must I pay the soloist and the organist or will gifts suffice? (5) We shall have a small reception at five o'clock for both families only at the home of my grandparents. Will punch and cake be sufficient? (6) Must we have ushers?"

Answer: (1) Blue is correct for an informal bride at any season of the year. (2) A purple orchid corsage is most attractive with blue. (3) Your accessories as outlined are perfectly correct but I suggest a hat exactly matching the color of your suit... black shoes and black or white gloves. (4) If the singer and the organist are professionals, hired for the purpose, pay them for their services. If they are friends who will extend their services because of your friendship, gifts will suffice. (5) If possible, you should, at that hour, serve something more substantial, such as a buffet supper. If this is not possible, you may of course serve punch and cake. (6) Ushers are optional.

Question: When a child is invited to a party, should the mother, who must take the child, go in with her and remain for the party?

Answer: She should take the child to the door, leave her and call for her when it is time for the party to end. She should not go in and stay, unless previously invited to do so by the small hostess' mother.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly mail personal replies to questions from readers enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

John Mason Brown is probably the most popular lecturer in America today. New York's Town Hall gave him official recognition as such when it tendered him a gala luncheon on the occasion of his fiftieth—yes, fiftieth—lecture at that institution. Not only the usual throng of adoring females, but a liberal sprinkling of fellow critics, authors and producers elbowed their way into the jammed hall, and when they were called upon to say a few words their good-natured jibes reflected obvious affection—and sheer envy.

Alfred de Liagre wondered how the lad referred to lovingly in his youth as "Kentucky Mushmouth" had been transformed suddenly into the most successful lecturer of the day. "The probable explanation," he concluded, "is that John makes the women of America think of all the things they haven't done with all the gentlemen they haven't met."

Bob Sherwood told how his attempted lecture tour began and ended in St. Louis. A local critic observed, "Mr. Sherwood looks like an undertaker—and is just about as funny. Sherwood agreed heartily, and sent his manager a two-word

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

"Assignment; America"

By INEZ ROBB
(Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)
(Distributed by International News Service)

MIDWAY, Idaho, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Electricity and the internal combustion engine have taken a lot of the drudgery out of the farm and are two reasons why nobody in these days of high produce prices has to worry about how to keep 'em down on—

Science, the tractor and the electric milking machine are here to stay. But no one has yet invented a vitamin U or an all-purpose penicillin to feed the hay hand or the "thrasher."

Old Time Vintages
I am here to testify that the hay and the thrashing crew still lap up the vittles in classic and traditional manner, and that the farm wife still has to dish it out in the old-time quality and quantity.

Beyond the windows of this farm house, my cousin Douglas and his neighbors are thrashing his oats with the aid of all sorts of mechanical gimmicks. But there was nothing mechanized about the collective appetite of the crew, mostly neighbors, when it slipped on the feed bag a couple of hours ago.

Douglas' pretty wife, Nora, was up at 5 a.m. to ready the banquet. The home-made bread, which Nora mixed and "set" last night, was ready for the oven at 6 a.m. It came out of the stove, golden brown and smoking hot, and she begged for a heel, soaked in butter and piled with homemade raspberry jam.

As a long-time city slicker, I was not much good for anything except KP. I scrubbed and peeled potatoes by the peck. When Larry, 14, staggered into the house under a sackful of roasting ears, I was allowed to help Joanna, 11, shuck the corn.

Huge Roast
In mid-morning, Nora slipped a huge standing rib roast into the oven, the kind of roast we city folks look at wistfully as we buy a pound of hamburger.

So far, preparations for feeding the thrashers had seemed to follow pretty much the same pattern as in my childhood. But I suddenly realized that the stove into which Nora had just put the roast was not an old wood burner but a gleaming white monster powered by electricity, with a gadget to regulate the heat and turn it off when the roast was done.

The huge refrigerator from which she took the salad greens was electric, too, and not an old-fashioned ice box or even the more primitive home-made water cooler of lath and burlap that once sat on our back porch. Here is a farm kitchen as up-to-date as the latest issue of any women's magazine.

Pickles-Relishes

We busied ourselves between 11 a.m. and noon with opening jars of pickles, relishes and jelly. We tossed the salad, peeled tomatoes and put on dishes of cetera. We made gallons of feed tea.

Then Joanna and I set the table, pulled out its greatest length and with every board in use. Nora spread a lace table cloth on it to my amazement, and seeing my surprise she said a little defensively that she had always used white linen heretofore.

"But the lace is easier to wash and iron," she explained, "and I hope the men won't miss the linen."

At noon sharp the men arrived for dinner. But there was no pump at which to wash, or tin basin set on a bench. Instead, the men filed into a modern bathroom and "readied up" for the table.

Then they listened to the noon broadcast of news from Korea before they surrounded the table 12 good men and true and each hungry as a bear.

Nora, Joanna and I served. I filled the empty bread dish a half dozen times. The great roast melted as if by magic. The potatoes disappeared as if in a vacuum. The mound of roasting ears vanished. I set the fourth pound of butter on the table. We mixed another big bowl of salad.

It took one of us to keep the feed tea glasses filled. And finally we set before them great dishes of home-made date, nut and spice cake, topped with whipped cream. They ate back in the field now miraculously able both to work and digest simultaneously, no mean feat. Nora and I have finished the dishes and she is now wondering if the hay hands, when they come in another ten days, wouldn't like a turkey dinner.

With maybe apple pie or ice cream for dessert. Minee pie, she feels, is a mite heavy for August.

HE IS ON A SPIN-ACH! DIET

WITH AN UNENTHUSIASTIC EXPRESSION, Corky Kitterman, 10, Los Angeles, surveys the plate of spinach that is to be his sole diet until he gets out of his system the corsage pin he swallowed while attempting to blow it through a bean shooter. At top, left, is an x-ray of the boy, showing the pin. Doctors hope that the spinach will form a protective blanket around the object while it is en route through Corky's intestinal tract. Luckily it is traveling with the head forward. (International Soundphoto)

GROWING HOG-WILD ON VITAMINS

NEW SYSTEM of vitamin feeding is responsible for the remarkable change in the hog in the before and after pictures, claim Sam and Frank Honegger, at Fairbury, Ill. Hogs fed by the Honegger method, which includes the use of antibiotics and minute quantities of vitamins, gain nearly a pound a day more than normal, say the brothers, and have lower mortality. Photos show results attained on one hog after 16 days on the new diet. (International)

When they're strapless—and they often are—they're wired and boned at the top, almost in the fashion of conventional strapless bras.

Local Pastor Will Retire

Rev. F. P. Sulmonetti To End Pastorate

Rev. F. P. Sulmonetti, one of the outstanding bilingual pastors of Methodism for the last 45 years, who has served leading churches in Italian churches including Westfield, N. Y.; and for the last 12 years Christ church in the city of New Castle, will retire at the annual session of his conference at Allegheny college, Meadville, this coming September. This announcement came as a surprise to the congregation during the morning service of worship Sunday.

Rev. Sulmonetti has been preaching for 45 years; during which time he built the first church in Westfield, in Chicago, he laid the foundation for a quarter million dollar sanctuary for the Italian Methodists in Denver he built a $100,000 church and received 1,000 Italians by conversion.

Although he will not reach the official retirement age for several years yet, Rev. Sulmonetti is stepping down in order to devote more time to make himself available for evangelistic campaigns which have been urged upon him and his "Sulmonetti Evangelistic Party" with increasing frequency in the past few years, he told his congregation Sunday. The Sulmonetti family plans to reside in Jamestown, N. Y.

In New Castle he holds the distinction of having held the pastorate of Christ Methodist, formerly known as the Italian Methodist church, longer than any of his predecessors and also the distinction of having served as the official chaplain of the Lawrence County home for ten years under auspices of the New Castle Ministerial Association. Rev. Sulmonetti has enjoyed a great ministry in New Castle. These years were no doubt the most fruitful of his active 45 years of ministry.

After reading his resignation, Mrs. H. H. Marlin, a returned missionary to India and now a local preacher in the church, expressed the regret of the congregation of the pastor's resignation.

Princess Elizabeth Strolls In Garden With Young Son

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Princess Elizabeth, who is expecting a baby at any moment, strolled through the garden of Clarence House this morning with her 21-month-old son, "Bonnie" Prince Charles.

The crowd of curious onlookers who had maintained an all-night vigil around the princess' cream-colored town mansion were surprised to see her taking a morning constitutional. The birth of her second baby is expected within 24 hours.

Activities at Clarence House were put on an hour-to-hour schedule with Elizabeth's husband, Prince Philip, remaining within calling distance and the staff of doctors standing by for the first sign of labor.

Famed gynecologist Sir William Gilliat was highly pleased over Elizabeth's excellent health and spirits and reported to be confident that it would not have to be an assisted birth as feared earlier.

Vandalism To Be Probed

Rev. Adam E. Simon, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church, censured police today during Council meeting in City Hall as the result of a vandal using a sledgehammer to break several stained glass windows in the house of worship.

He said the act occurred last Tuesday night and Janitor William Koher reported the vandalism to police Wednesday morning.

When Rev. Simon, who had been absent from the city, went to the police station upon his return to investigate, he said on record of Koher's complaint could be found.

It developed that a substitute sergeant or some other attaché had received Koher's report while the regular sergeant was off duty for lunch.

Council ordered an investigation and Solicitor Robert M. White instructed that whenever a sergeant is relieved the substitute sergeant inscribe his name on the docket, in an effort to avoid similar situations.

After Rev. Simon finished with his complaint, Andrew Harcar also complained that windows had been broken in his Boyles avenue property. He said police made investigations but no apprehensions resulted and said authorities when they do catch a vandal should "put the fear into them."

Safety Director Richard J. Davis offered the motion calling for a thorough investigation of the Lutheran church vandalism, which was seconded by Property Director Joe Medure. Finance Director A. H. Lloydland acted as chairman during the absence of Mayor John F. Haven, who is on vacation.

Local Boy On Casualty List

According to the latest casualty report from the fighting front in Korea, Pfc. John L. Bartberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Bartberger, of 208 East Wallace avenue, was among those wounded in recent fighting in Korea.

Rev. F. P. Sulmonetti To End Pastorate

Rev. F. P. Sulmonetti, one of the outstanding bilingual pastors of Methodism for the last 45 years, who has served leading charges in Italian churches including Westfield, N. J.; Boston, Mass.; Denver, Colo.; Chicago, Ill.; Elizabeth, N. J.; Portland, Me.; Jamestown, N. Y.; and for the last 12 years Christ church in the city of New Castle, will retire at the annual session of his conference at Allegheny college, Meadville, this coming September. This announcement came as a surprise to the congregation during the morning service of worship Sunday.

Rev. Sulmonetti has been preaching for 45 years; during which time he built the first church in Westfield, in Chicago, he laid the foundation for a quarter million dollar sanctuary for the Italian Methodists. In Denver he built a $100,000 church and received 1,000 Italians by conversion.

Although he will not reach the official retirement age for several years yet, Rev. Sulmonetti is stepping down in order to devote more time to make himself available for evangelistic campaigns which have been urged upon him and his "Sulmonetti Evangelistic Party" with increasing frequency in the past few years, he told his congregation Sunday. The Sulmonetti family plans to reside in Jamestown, N. Y.

In New Castle he holds the distinction of having held the pastorate of Christ Methodist, formerly known as the Italian Methodist

Princess Elizabeth Strolls In Garden With Young Son

LONDON, Aug. 14. (INS)—Princess Elizabeth, who is expecting a baby at any moment, strolled through the garden of Clarence House this morning with her 21-month-old son, "Bonnie" Prince Charles.

The crowd of curious onlookers who had maintained an all-night vigil around the princess' cream-colored town mansion were surprised to see her taking a morning constitutional. The birth of her second baby is expected within 24 hours.

Activities at Clarence House were put on an hour-to-hour schedule with Elizabeth's husband, Prince Philip, remaining within calling distance and the staff of doctors standing by for the first sign of labor.

Famed gynecologist Sir William Gilliat was highly pleased over Elizabeth's excellent health and spirits and reported to be confident that it would not have to be an assisted birth as feared earlier.

Thomas L. Thomas Visits Rev. T. J. Jones

Rev. and Mrs. Thomas J. Jones, of 100 East Reynolds street, were pleasantly surprised Sunday evening, by a visit overnight, from Thomas L. Thomas of New York, renowned baritone singer of stage and radio.

He had heard of the illness of Rev. Jones, and planned his itinerary to enable him to visit the local minister.

Mr. Thomas has been closely associated with Rev. Jones since his arrival in this country from Wales, and his folks were members of Rev. Jones' church at Scranton, where the family first settled.

The Welsh singer retains the language of his tradition and speaks it as fluently and sweetly as the day he arrived in U. S. A.

He had a singing engagement in Detroit, Mich., on Saturday, and left this city this morning by early train for his appointment in New York. Mr. Thomas favored Rev. and Mrs. Jones with the first song he sang to them in Scranton, "Fling Apples On The Lilac Tree" and "Friend."

He wished to be remembered to his many friends here, and the folks from Maesteg, Wales, the place of his birth, and officers of Metropolitan Guild here.

Prof. Evan Lloyd of Braddock, also from Maesteg, visited Rev. Jones on Sunday.

Relief Rolls Suffer Seasonal Thinning Out

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's relief rolls dipped to 388,200 persons during the last half of July, the Department of Public Assistance reported today.

The DPA said 3,985 persons left the rolls during the period, compared with 9,621 in the first half of the month.

"The slowing of the downward movement of the assistance rolls at this time is not unusual since late June and July is a period of seasonal lulls in a large number of industries," the DPA explained.

Many manufacturing industries finish off their current spring and summer line and then close down for periods of two to four weeks for vacations or to switch to new fall and winter lines."

Birmingham Steel Mill Strike Affected

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 14.—(INS)—About 5,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America went on strike today in the first large industrial walkout in the Birmingham, Ala., area since the Korean fighting began.

Tennessee coal, iron and railroad company sources said stockpiles of iron ore are sufficient for 45 to 60 days at normal operating speed. Four mines and an ore-conditioning plant are affected.

Company policy is to keep secret whether the U. S. Steel subsidiary is at work on any military contracts. But Birmingham newspaper business page figures have indicated that in recent weeks "normal operations" have meant full capacity production.

to the DPA, there were 80,592 persons on general assistance rolls, 97,040 recipients of old age assistance, 193,082 families receiving aid to dependent children, and 15,508 blind pensioners.

Ford Workers Warn Of Coming Strike

DETROIT, Aug. 14.—(INS)—The CIO-United Auto Workers today warned the Ford Motor Co. that 65,000 workers will be called out on strike at the giant Rouge plant January 2 unless they are given a wage boost.

Ford recently rejected a demand by UAW local 600 at the Rouge that negotiations for a wage increase begin immediately.

The union contract provides for no reopening before January 1 except by consent of both parties, and January 2 is the first date the union could call a strike without violating the pact.

Relief Rolls Suffer Seasonal Thinning Out

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's relief rolls dipped to 386,200 persons during the last half of July, the Department of Public Assistance reported today.

The DPA said 3,985 persons left the rolls during the period, compared with 8,621 in the first half of the month.

"The slowing of the downward movement of the assistance rolls at this time is not unusual since late June and July is a period of seasonal lulls in a large number of industries," the DPA explained.

"Many manufacturing industries finish off their current spring and summer line and then close down for periods of two to four weeks for vacations or to switch to new fall and winter lines."

At the end of July, according to

to the DPA, there were 80,592 persons on general assistance rolls, 97,040 recipients of old age assistance, 193,062 families receiving aid to dependent children, and 15,506 blind pensioners.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(INS)—They're painting the town today—white, not red.

The first of 150 miles of New York's most busily-traveled streets began being slapped today with white center lines, lane lines and crosswalk markers in a campaign designed to help both motorists and pedestrians. In all 6,000 gallons of paint will be used.

COAL CENTER
SANTIAGO—Chile has practically all the coal deposits found in South America.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 14.—(INS)—About 5,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America went on strike today in the first large industrial walkout in the Birmingham, Ala., area since the Korean fighting began.

Tennessee coal, iron and railroad company sources said stockpiles of iron ore are sufficient for 45 to 60 days at normal operating speed. Four mines and an ore-conditioning plant are affected.

Company policy is to keep secret whether the U. S. Steel subsidiary is at work on any military contracts. But Birmingham newspaper business page figures have indicated that in recent weeks "normal operations" have meant full capacity production.

The employees voted the strike

Sunday for a job reclassification that would give them pay raises of from nine to 12½ cents an hour.

Ford Workers Warn Of Coming Strike

DETROIT, Aug. 14.—(INS)—The CIO-United Auto Workers today warned the Ford Motor Co. that 65,000 workers will be called out on strike at the giant Rouge plant January 2 unless they are given a wage boost.

Ford recently rejected a demand by UAW local 600 at the Rouge that negotiations for a wage increase begin immediately.

The union contract provides for no reopening before January 1 except by consent of both parties, and January 2 is the first date the union could call a strike without violating the pact.

Man Pursues Two Young Women

Two Moravia Street hill young women went through a harrowing experience at 12:52 a. m. today. They were chased by a man and were forced to find safety in a stranger's house in Mill street.

A suspect, arrested later in Long avenue, was released by police, when one of the young women failed to identify him as their pursuer.

The two Hanna street women were en route home when the man approached toward them near the Falcons hall.

The women fled to a house some distance away and the man disappeared.

Police were alerted and apprehended a suspect in Long avenue who later was released.

REDS MASSING HUGE FORCE IN NAKTONG SECTOR

that sector. Here the Red tanks were reported "thinned out," as the foe shifted forces down to the Nakdong sector, defended by the U. S. First Cavalry and 24th Divisions.

Air Offensive:—Dives of American and Australian planes kept bombing, rocketing and strafing enemy columns, communications and rear supply center. U. S. carrier-borne planes, striking at rail targets in the north, introduced the navy's new "Tiny Tim" rocket into warfare for the first time.

Jolting Air Assault
A Monday night U. S. 8th Army communiqué and subsequent front dispatches told of the jolting American counter-assault in the two Nakdong sectors, about 30 miles apart.

International News Service War Correspondent Frank Conniff reported the First Cavalry's Seventh Regiment fought hand-to-hand, using rifibullets, bayonets, knives and even their low-sweeping planes to attack the Red forces that crossed the Nakdong near Waegwan.

In a dispatch direct from that sector at 9:34 Monday night (7:34 a. m. EDT), Conniff said this was "perhaps the greatest concentration slaughter of the Americans have wrought upon the North Koreans."

He said the 700 to 800 Reds who crossed the Nakdong—only to be wiped out—"apparently tried to open their long-anticipated full-scale attack down the Waegwan-Taegu corridor."

General Conniff described some sectors of the battlefield as "piled high" with enemy dead, and said that "many more" Communists were drowned in the Nakdong river while trying to flee back across to the west bank. American tanks, infantry and low-sweeping planes were credited with taking the "heaviest tolls" of the enemy forces.

Push Enemy Back
From the Changnyung sector, INS War Correspondent Frank Emery reported at 10:43 Monday night (8:43 a. m. EDT) that American infantry tanks and planes pushed the enemy back more than a mile toward the Nakdong in day-long fighting.

Emery said the crack North Korean division's three infantry and one engineer regiment, supported by self-propelled guns and some of the biggest offensive blow the 24th tanks, broke under the impact of Division has yet unleashed.

The 24th was the first U. S. ground unit to go into action in Korea where it waged a series of grim delaying battles against numerically superior enemy hordes.

Smash Road Blocks
As the 24th Division's shock forces were whittling away at the Red bulge that menaced the Taege-Pusan lifeline rail-highway route, other American units in the rear smashed the last of three Red roadblocks on the west-east road from Yongsan to Miryang.

The latter lies midway on the trunk highway that runs 55 miles northwest from the vital entry harbor of Pusan to Taegu.

roadblocks which had intercepted this was the largest of the three the movement of American wounded and supplies for 38 hours. The other two smaller Red roadblocks were smashed Saturday.

American Red Cross Is Official Blood Agency For Services

General George C. Marshall, President of the American National Red Cross, has accepted the request of the Secretary of Defense, Louis Johnson, that the Red Cross become the official agency for the procurement of blood for the armed forces. It was announced today by John R. Preston, Chairman of the local Red Cross.

Secretary Johnson stated in his request to General Marshall that the blood procurement task performed by the Red Cross during World War II "was most successful."

He further stated "it is my desire to recommend at this time that a similar relationship between the American National Red Cross and the Department of Defense be established so that in time of need the armed forces may look to the American Red Cross as the official procurement agency for the needs of the armed forces as related to whole blood and blood derivatives."

General Marshall designated Vice-Admiral Ross T. McIntire, (M. C. USN, retired) of the Red Cross National Blood Program, to work with Dr. Richard L. Meiling, director of Medical Services of the Department of Defense, to coordinate and develop the plan.

The American Red Cross Blood Program of World War II was begun at the request of the military February 1, 1941. Between then and the end of the war 13,326,242 pints were collected. Of this amount 12,628,643 pints were processed into dried plasma and serum albumin for use overseas.

In August 1944 whole blood for the first time was flown direct from the United States to forward military hospitals overseas. The first of this blood was used at Tarawa. Whole blood was also flown to the European theater. Blood, plasma and other blood derivatives are credited by military surgeons with having been a major factor in the low death rate among the American servicemen. More than 97 per cent of the wounded survived. This is the highest record of survival in all military history.

Man Pursues Two Young Women

Two Moravia Street hill young women went through a harrowing experience at 12:52 a. m. today. They were chased by a man and were forced to find safety in a stranger's house in Mill street.

A suspect, arrested later in Long avenue, was released by police, when one of the young women failed to identify him as their pursuer.

The two Hanna street women were en route home when the man approached toward them near the Falcons hall.

The women fled to a house some distance away and the man disappeared.

Police were alerted and apprehended a suspect in Long avenue who later was released.

A Wyoming cowboy won $800 for staying on a rearing bull eight seconds. Now he can afford a parachute for his next attempt.

REDS MASSING HUGE FORCE IN NAKTONG SECTOR

that sector. Here the Red tanks were reported "thinned out," as the foe shifted forces down to the Nakdong sectors defended by the U. S. First Cavalry and 24th Divisions.

Air Offensive—Droves of American and Australian planes kept bombing, rocketing and strafing enemy columns, communications and rear supply center. U. S. carrier-borne planes, striking at rail targets in the north, introduced the navy's new "Tiny Tim" rocket into warfare for the first time.

Jolting Air Assault
A Monday night U. S. 8th Army communique and subsequent front dispatches told of the jolting American counter-assaults in the two Nakdong sectors, about 30 miles apart.

International News Service War Correspondent Frank Conniff reported the First Cavalry's Seventh Regiment fought hand-to-hand, using riflebutts, bayonets, knives and even their fists to exterminate the Red forces that crossed the Nakdong near Waegwan.

In a dispatch direct from that sector at 9:34 Monday night (7:34 a. m. EDT), Conniff said this was "perhaps the greatest concentrated slaughter of the Americans have wrought upon the North Koreans."

He said the 700 to 800 Reds who crossed the Nakdong—only to be wiped out—"apparently tried to open their long-anticipated full-scale attack down the Waegwan-Taegu corridor."

Conniff described some sectors of the battlefield as "piled high" with enemy dead and said that "many more" Communists were drowned in the Nakdong river while trying to flee back across to the west bank. American tanks, field guns and low-sweeping planes were credited with taking the "heaviest tolls" of the enemy forces.

Push Enemy Back
From the Changnyong sector, INS War Correspondent Frank Emery reported at 10:43 Monday night (8:43 a. m. EDT) that American infantry, tanks and planes pushed the enemy back more than a mile toward the Nakdong in day-long fighting.

Emery said the crack North Korean division's three infantry and one engineer regiment, supported by self-propelled guns and some of the biggest offensive blow the 24th tanks, broke under the impact of Division has yet unleashed.

The 24th was the first U. S. ground unit to go into action in Korea where it waged a series of grim delaying battles against numerically superior enemy hordes.

Smash Road Blocks
As the 24th Division's shock forces were whittling away at the Red bulge that menaced the Taegu-Pusan lifeline rail-highway route, other American units in the rear smashed the last of three Red roadblocks on the west-east road from Yongsan to Miryang.

The latter lies midway on the trunk highway that runs 55 miles northwest from the vital entry harbor of Pusan to Taegu.

This was the largest of the three roadblocks on the west-east road from Yongsan to Miryang.

The other two smaller Red roadblocks were smashed Saturday.

Now that giant 19-inch screen sets are available, television goes in for midget wrestling.

American Red Cross Is Official Blood Agency For Services

General George C. Marshall, President of the American National Red Cross, has accepted the request of the Secretary of Defense, Louis Johnson, that the Red Cross become the official agency for the procurement of blood for the armed forces, it was announced today by John R. Preston, Chairman of the local Red Cross.

Secretary Johnson stated in his request to General Marshall that the blood procurement task performed by the Red Cross during World War II "was most successful."

He further stated "it is my desire to recommend at this time that a similar relationship between the American National Red Cross and the Department of Defense be established so that in time of need the armed forces may look to the American Red Cross as the official procurement agency for the needs of whole blood and blood derivatives."

General Marshall designated Vice-Admiral Ross T. McIntire, (M. C. USN, retired) of the Red Cross National Blood Program, to work with Dr. Richard L. Meiling, director of Medical Services of the Department of Defense, to coordinate and develop the plan.

The American Red Cross Blood Program of World War II was begun at the request of the military February 1, 1941. Between then and the end of the war 13,326,242 pints were collected. Of this amount 12,628,645 pints were processed into dried plasma and serum albumin for use overseas.

In August 1944 whole blood for the first time was flown direct from the United States to forward military hospitals overseas. The first of this blood was used at Tarawa.

Whole blood was also flown to the European theater. Blood, plasma and other blood derivatives are credited by military surgeons with having been a major factor in the low death rate among the American servicemen. More than 97 per cent of the wounded survived. This is the highest record of survival in all military history.

More Stringent Control Curbs May Be Asked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Administration leaders on both sides of Capitol Hill face fights today to get the comparatively mild curbs advocated by President Truman against spies, saboteurs and subversives.

There seemed to be a growing force in both houses leaning toward the theory that the controls should be even more stringent than those sought by the President.

In the Senate, Chairman McCarran (D) Nev., of the judiciary committee, bluntly declared that "no legislation is worth a plugged nickel unless it has teeth in it."

The House un-American activities committee is expected to act on legislation following the stringent principles of the Mundt-Nixon bill, which is opposed by Mr. Truman.

That measure would set up a subversive activities control board, require the registration of communists; label communist-sponsored literature, broadcasts and telecasts, and tighten security regulations for government employees.

In addition, the committee may take on a bill by Chairman Wood (D) Ga., which bars communists from government jobs and from defense plants operating under government contracts.

More Stringent Control Curbs May Be Asked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Administration leaders on both sides of Capitol Hill face fights today to get the comparatively mild curbs advocated by President Truman against spies, saboteurs and subversives.

There seemed to be a growing force in both houses leaning toward the theory that the controls should be even more stringent than those sought by the President.

In the Senate, Chairman McCarran (D Nev.), of the Judiciary committee, bluntly declared that "no legislation is worth a plugged nickel unless it has teeth in it."

The House un-American activities committee is expected to act on legislation following the stringent principles of the Mundt-Ferguson bill, which is opposed by Mr. Truman.

That measure would set up a subversive activities control board; require the registration of communists; label communist-sponsored literature, broadcasts and telecasts, and tighten security regulations for government employees.

In addition, the committee may take on a bill by Chairman Wood (D Ga.), which bars communists from government jobs and from defense plants operating under government contracts.

Hickory Teacher Roster Completed

Hickory township filled out its teacher roster at a meeting of the school board last week, with the election of Mrs. Margaret B. Duncan of Slippery Rock to teach in the elementary school.

The new addition to the Hickory

Heights elementary school will not be finished in time for school in the fall, due to shortages of material, it is announced.

A new star has been discovered in the constellation of Scorpio. And, from now on, no doubt, will insist on its proper billing in any future astronomical cast of cosmic characters.

Senators Defeat Johnstown 9-3; Trail By Half-Game Today

Phils Keep Five-Game Lead; Yankees Lose, Indians Split

By HOWARD SIGMUND
(International News Service Staff Writer)
NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The current National League championship chase may very well go down in baseball history as the one in which the St. Louis Cardinals sold out the pennant for $10,000.

That's the figure returned to Fred Saigh's treasury last month by the New York Giants for one Jim Hearn, a right-handed pitcher the Cardinals figured was all washed up.

Hearn blanked the pace-setting Philadelphia Phils, 2 to 0 on just four hits. Nothing new for Jim. He has taken the Phils for a 6-0. The fighting Phils maintained their five game senior circuit lead.

Dodgers Move Up
Brooklyn moved into third place ahead of St. Louis stopping second place Boston, 8 to 2 behind Krv Palca.

Cincinnati's Reds moved into sixth place by edging the Cardinals, 3 to 2.

The fall-out Pittsburgh Pirates drew the Chicago Cubs down into seventh place with a double hitting Cliff Chambers shook off a seven game losing streak to win the opener, 7 to 4. And Mel Queen five-hitted the cubs for a 2 to 0 blanking in the second game.

Ralph Kiner hit his 32nd homer and 200th of his five year Major League career in the first game.

Tigers Idle
The Detroit Tigers had a double-header with the Browns postponed because of wet grounds but their American League lead didn't suffer.

Lefty Lou Brissie set the New York Yankees down for four hits, 5 to 2, for the Philadelphia Athletics.

Detroit's lead stands at 3 1/2 games.

The Yankees held second place by one percentage point as the Cleveland Indians split a pair with the Chicago White Sox. The Indians won the opener, 5 to 2. Chicago got off to a five-run first inning in the nightcap and staggered in to a 7 to 5 triumph.

A four run outburst in the sixth inning gave the Washington Senators a 6 to 5 win over the Boston Red Sox.

James Lamoree Gets Hole-In-One At Castle Hills

Young Jim Lamoree, 411 East Leasure avenue, a student at Penn State college, got the biggest golfing thrill of a lifetime Saturday at the No. 2-167-yard hole at Castle Hills, by sinking a hole-in-one.

Witnessing the shot was his golfing companion Nancy Goodwin, and David and Joseph Kirkwood of 409 West Parkway, this city who happened to be leaving the green at the time. All four persons were excited beyond description at the unusual shot. Lamoree used a 5-iron in reaching the green where the ball stopped, fell into the cup. He finished the round unperurbed with a sizzling 74 card, five under par for the Castle Hills front nine.

"Gee I really was excited," the young man said. Nancy was breathless with admiration.

Sargent Scores Hole-In-One At Mill Creek Park

Ray Sargent, well-known local golfing star, is after Bill Nunn's hole-in-one record of three, and Sunday morning at Mill Creek Park in Youngstown shot his second ace of his career on the No. 8 hole, a 156-yard layout, with a five-iron.

Playing with Sargent were Tom Baum, his brother, George Sargent, and Gene Jackson. The men were excited beyond control, but it's getting to be old stuff with Sargent. Two years ago Ray made a hole-in-one at Castle Hills.

Unique Golf Shot At Castle Hills

Pete Terranova of 528 Bleakley avenue had the delightful misfortune Sunday at Castle Hills course of making a hole-in-one, in this case just a birdie, on the three-par No. 11 hole, 141 yards.

Terranova hooked his first tee shot into the rough and played a provisional ball his second shot, when to his surprise, it landed on the green and tinkled into the cup for what normally is a hole-in-one, but not in this case.

Playing with Terranova at the time and witnessing the most unusual shot in golf were Rev. Fr. Albert M. Infuso of St. Vitus church, Nick Dattorio and John Morar. Pete and his companions can talk about this one for years to come.

Elkins Brothers Recuperates Fast

Floored, Got Up, Defeated Ronzi

Has Elkins Brothers ever got off the floor to win?

This query was put often. The fact remains, he has.

During his amateur days he boxed Rizeri Ronzi, Youngstown's belting heavyweight in a Farrell ring.

One of Rizeri's thugs struck Brothers on the chin, and down Brothers went!

As he groveled on the floor, the nerves of Constable Andy Fair, First ward, and Police Lieutenant Tommy Jones, city department, who were his advisers, shook like leaves in a windstorm.

They believed the punch would prove a knockout.

After the referee tolled off a few seconds Brothers "pulled himself to his feet," stalled momentarily, then having regained his bearings, tore into Ronzi, and was given the decision.

Fans who have seen Brothers since his pugilistic infant days, expect to witness a much improved heavyweight when Brothers ties into Johnny Swanson, Buffalo heavyweight, August 17, at Flaherty field.

Swanson is good enough to be a sparring mate for Freddie Besheore, who battles Ezzard Charles, for the NBA title, Tuesday night in Buffalo.

Because boxing bouts are minus burlesque, plus the fact few have been staged here recently, a big crowd is expected at Thursday night's show.

Gaston Post Loses To Erie

Eliminated From State Tournament

Perry S. Gaston American Legion Post Junior team was eliminated from the state Legion tournament Saturday afternoon at Oil City when it lost to Erie 5-2.

Saturday's game was the rubber game of a three-game series. New Castle won the first 8-3 and dropped the second 7-2.

Orlando went the route for the local and was found for 12 hits. Williams went all the way for Erie, holding the Gaston post team to seven hits and fanning 11.

Erie scored three of their runs in the first inning on a single, an error, and three more singles. These first inning runs were enough to win for Erie, as New Castle failed to hit with men on the runways throughout the game.

Three times Williams retired the side with the bases loaded.

New Castle defeated Ambridge, Saxenburg and Brookville in the state playoffs before bowing to Erie.

Erie dropped the first game of its series with Monongahela Sunday afternoon 20-2.

UMPIRES MEETING

Lawrence County Umpires Association will hold a special meeting tonight at the YMCA at 8 o'clock. It is announced by president Albert J. Conti.

The Cleveland Browns have 14 players who were members of the first Brown's team, formed in 1946. (Additional Sports on Page 19)

Famiglietti And Ackerman Slam Two Homers; Butler Wins 10-6; Will Play Johnstown Here Tonight

New Castle's young hustling Senators are just a half game off the lead in the "Mid-Atlantic" league today by virtue of splitting a pair of weekend games, losing Saturday to Butler 10-6, and slamming Johnstown 9-3 Sunday.

The slipping Oil City Refiners didn't fare too well over the same period, dropping to Johnstown Saturday night 7-5 and to Butler yesterday 15-9. Butler picked up ground in their first place fight, now being 4 1/2 games off the pace.

Famiglietti and Ackerman hit homers Tommy Famiglietti and Dick Ackerman turned into home run sluggers over the weekend, both getting two circuit clouts, all over the left freight wall, to make it 12 for Famiglietti and three for young Ackerman, for the season. "Fam" hit two yesterday against Johnstown, and Ackerman hit one against Butler Saturday, and against the Johnnies yesterday, helping to pull the Senators off of their slump.

Joe Smolko (1-2) was the pitching victim Saturday night, the veteran breezing along with a 1-1 tie the first four innings, but Butler started hitting in the fifth and wound up with four runs on five hits. Rossman finished for New Castle. The Senators chased Butler, starter Dick Furlong in the eighth, Pritchard finishing.

Wagner Wins, Becka Goes Tonight

The veteran Frank Wagner (11-4) settled down after a shaky first inning yesterday against Johnstown and allowed only five hits and no runs the last eight innings, backed up by brilliant support. The Senators had 12 hits off of Gimantini, Famiglietti and Ackerman each having three. All Mouton and Wagner each had two hits.

George Becka, (12-4) who hurled a two-hitter against Butler Friday night will be on the hill for the Senators tonight as they battle Johnstown in the second game of the current series here tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Senators Score Five

The Senators had a big fifth inning yesterday against Johnstown, scoring five runs on five hits, two homers, by Famiglietti and Ackerman, both of the 375 fee variety. Ackerman's clearing the batting sign in left field and Famiglietti's hitting the scoreboard, for a ground rule homer.

For box seats, 75 cents for general admission and 25 for children under 12. All season tickets will be honored at this game.

Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER

MALARIA

Malaria is a very serious disease. The word means "bad air". People once thought that breathing damp night air caused it. They did not know that the little old mosquito was the culprit, although they had been a little suspicious for centuries.

Malaria can be cured but who wants it that way. It is far better to prevent it. Do away with the mosquito and malaria goes too. Just one kind of mosquito carries malaria. He carries too long a name to pronounce so let the health department say it.

Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER

MALARIA

Malaria is a very serious disease. The word means "bad air". People once thought that breathing damp night air caused it. They did not know that the little old mosquito was the culprit, although they had been a little suspicious for centuries.

Malaria can be cured but who wants it that way. It is far better to prevent it. Do away with the mosquito and malaria goes too.

Just one kind of mosquito carries malaria. He carries too long a name to pronounce so let the health department say it.

GARAGE BURNS—A $6000 fire, believed caused by a spark igniting exposed gasoline, destroyed the Wayne Trout Garage here.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Time was when an audience could spot the movies villain the first time he flickered on the screen but that is all changed now and it looks like those days are gone forever.

Today Hollywood masks its villains in chiseled profiles, dashing personalities and handsome physiques. The studios explain it as the answer to an unexplainable fad among movie fans today to go for the men who act mean on the screen.

In the silent era only Erich Von Stroheim marched to fame as a villain, being advertised as "the man you love to hate" in such flickers as "Foolish Wives," "Blind Husbands" and "The Wedding March."

More than a score of the top-ranking film stars on the current Hollywood scene have earned their film stripes in heavy roles. The number includes Robert Montgomery, George Sanders, Richard Widmark, Richard Basehart, Dan Duryea, Lawrence Tierney, and Stephen McNally.

Newest leet on the cinema horizon belongs to young Alex Nicol who plays a sadistic Indian killer in "Tomahawk." Alex, by all Hollywood standards, is the ideal leading man. He is tall and well-built and already he has been tagged Hollywood's handsomest villain.

Discovered in New York where he was working as Henry Fonda's understudy in "Mr. Roberts," Alex played a highly dramatic character role in "The Sleeping City." He was signed to a long term movie contract before he finished his first film.

In "Tomahawk" he spares no horses in villainy. He deliberately kills any Indian boy to provoke war between the Sioux and the U. S. Cavalry. In battle he sacrifices his own men to save his life. In a wild struggle with Van Heflin, who portrays Jim Bridger in "Tomahawk," he uses every underhand trick known to rough-and-tumble fighting.

"The director says fans will love me for my performance," comments Nicol, shaking his head. "I'm beginning to lose my trust in human kindness. Just reading the script, I learned to hate myself overnight."

But Nicol does not have to worry about being shoved out of the handsome hero class. Villains today are the hottest property in Hollywood and the meaner the better.

United Engineering Profit Is Increased

United Engineering and Foundry Company reports for the six months ended June 30, 1950, show net income of $3,422,825, equal to $4.14 per common share after preferred dividends, an increase over the net profit of $2,565,507, or $3.09 per common share, in the corresponding period of 1949.

Completed orders, or net sales of $36,489,443 for the first half of the current year were well above the $32,124,567 for the same period last year.

The net income for 1950 period is after all charges and Federal taxes, but is subject to year-end adjustments. In both years, provisions for normal depreciation and for employees' retirement plan have been made. The company has 820,746 shares of common stock outstanding the same as a year earlier.

SPINACH BEATER

PASADENA, Calif. — (INS) — There's at least one boy in the world with an excellent excuse for not eating his spinach. Five-year-old Eric Hatch of Pasadena said a polite "no thank you" when he sat down to dinner with his family and was offered the stuff that makes a boy as strong as Popeye. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hatch, and Eric's seven-year-old brother, Russell Junior, all ate their spinach—grown in the family garden. A few minutes later Eric was the only one at home. The rest made a hurried trip to an emergency hospital.
